TAQRIZ

Samarqand davlat veterinariya meditsinasi, chorvachilik va biotexnologiyalar universiteti Xorijiy tillar kafedrasida katta o'qituvchisi M.U. Tursunova tomonidan 60810400-Agronomiya, 60810500-O'simliklar himoyasi va karantini, 60810600-Qishloq xo'jaligi ekinlari seleksiyasi va urug'chiligi, 60810700-Qishloq xo'jaligi mahsulotlarini saqlash va qayta ishlash texnologiyasi, 60811100-Dorivor o'simliklar yetishtirish va qayta ishlash texnologiyasi ta'lim yo'nalishlari talabalarini uchun tuzilgan "Xorijiy til" o'quv dasturi talabalarni bilim va ko'nikmalarni shakllantirishda katta ahamiyatga ega.

O'zbekiston Respublikasi Prezidenti Sh.M.Mirziyoyevning 2017 yil 26 apreldagi "Oliy ta'lim tizimini yanada takomillashtirish chora-tadbirlari to'g'risida"gi PQ-2909-sonli Qarorida "Oliy ma'lumotli mutaxassislar tayyorlashning maqsadli parametrlarini shakllantirish, oliy ta'lim muassasalarida o'qitish yo'nalishlari va mutaxassisliklarini istiqbolda mintaqalar va iqtisodiyot tarmoqlarini kompleks rivojlantirish, amalga oshirilayotgan hududiy va tarmoq dasturlarining talablarini inobatga olgan holda optimallashtirish" zarurligini alohida ta'kidlagan edi. Bularning barchasi mamlakatimiz ravnaqiga, ayniqsa, O'zbekiston Respublikasi Prezidentining 2022 yil 28 yanvardagi "2022-2026 yillarga mo'ljallangan Yangi O'zbekistonning Taraqqiyot Strategiyasi to'g'risida"gi PF-60-sonli Farmonida belgilangan vazifalarni amalga oshirishga salmoqli hissa qo'shishi shubhasiz. Boini yuqorida qayd etilgan qaror va farmonlarda boshqa tanlar bilan bir qatorda chet tillarni o'rganish va ta'lim sifati samaradorligiga erishish dolzarb vazifalar ekanligi ta'kidlangan.

"Xorijiy til" o'quv dasturi Samarqand davlat veterinariya meditsinasi, chorvachilik va biotexnologiyalar universiteti 60710200-Biotexnologiya ta'lim yo'nalishi talabalarini uchun o'tkaziladigan o'qish, tarjima qilish, va erkin suhbat ko'rimishidagi imtihonlarda tavsiya etilgan ko'nikmalarga ega bo'lgan holatda qatnashib o'z so'zlariga oid matnlar va testlarni ko'zda tutilgan kompetensiyalarni qo'llagan holda berilgan topshiriqlarni bajarishiga qaratilgan.

Men "Xorijiy til" o'quv dasturini o'quv jarayonida qo'llashga va uni chop etishga tavsiya etaman.

A 1-2

Introduction.

As a student, I am in elementary school and try my best to attend every class. I have a close group of friends, but Sanika is my best and most loyal friend.

As a student, I participate in all of the school's extracurricular activities and am good at all of them. I have outstanding academic performance and am a good athlete. I never left an incomplete assignment or class. I prefer to do it before bed. It is my habit to read the newspaper every day. I spent most of my time lying in the park with a book in my hand. Even in class, I am usually a very attentive student. Apart from that, I am also very organised regarding my work. I am not only responsible but also considerate of others. If my friends or classmates need help, I will help them too.

I have a friendly personality, and I am a detail-oriented type. I am attentive and quick to recognise the needs of people and situations. For example, I tend to notice people who are left out in groups and make friends with them. They also tend to point out missing connections and blind spots when working on a project. I like to think carefully about issues and how decisions affect people. This behaviour stems from my ability to perceive others' emotions accurately and objectively without necessarily agreeing with them. It's a convenient strength to use. Another strength of mine is that I am a great abstract thinker. This means an improved ability to deal with complex and multifaceted problems. This strength has yet to be tested in the world of work, but having used it in my mentorship role in the Church, I see its utility. I am inspired by the complex situations people face. There, you can enjoy playing out in your mind how to approach people with different strategies, or showing people new perspectives in the same situation, putting them in a better position to solve a problem. My interests go hand in hand with my strengths. I love helping, interacting and meeting people's needs. I have a particular kind heart for those left out of the hamster wheel, such as children with learning disabilities, the elderly without close relatives, and the marginalised. I volunteer at a math and science camp for children with learning disabilities during summers.

Personal pronouns and “To be” in Present

We use subject pronouns as the subject of a verb:

I like your dress.

You are late.

He is my friend.

It is raining.

She is on holiday.

We live in England.

They come from London.

English clauses always have a subject.

His father has just retired. > He was a teacher. (NOT ~~Was a teacher.~~)

I'm waiting for my wife. > She is late. (NOT ~~Is late.~~)

The imperative, which is used for orders, invitations and requests, is an exception:

Stop!

Go away.

Please come to dinner tomorrow.

Play it again, please.

he, she and they

We use he/him to refer to men, and she/her to refer to women. When we are not sure if we are talking about a man or a woman, we use they/them:

This is Jack. He's my brother. I don't think you have met him.

This is Angela. She's my sister. Have you met her before?

You could go to a doctor. They might help you.

Talk to a friend. Ask them to help you.

*I am, I'm
You are, You're
He/She/It is, He/She/It's
We are, we're
You are, you're
They are, they're*

*Am I?
Are you?
Is he/she it?*

*Are we?
Are you?
Are they?*

*I am not, I'm not
You are not, You aren't, You're not
He/She/It is not, He/She/It isn't, He's not*

*We are not, We aren't, We're not
You are not, You aren't, You're not
They are not, They aren't, They're not*

TO BE: PRESENT SIMPLE

FORM:

AFFIRMATIVE

I am
You are
He/She/It is
We/You/They are

NEGATIVE

I am not
You aren't
He/She/It isn't
We/You/They aren't

INTERROGATIVE

Am I?

A 3-4. About friend

I have a very good friend. His (her) name is ... Friends are very important in our life. I think one cannot live without friends. The most important thing for being good friends, to my mind, is to be ready to help one another in any situation, nevertheless how difficult it is, to support one another and to solve all the problems together. And never mind, that the friends may have different interests and hobbies, different likes and dislikes. They say that the friend in need is a friend indeed. I think it is really so. My friend and I always do our best to help one another. We discuss all our troubles and try to find the best decision in any situation. My friend is a very good, kind and clever boy (girl). We often spend our free time together. It is not very easy now, because both of us are very busy we are going to enter institutes and have a lot of work to do. My friend is going to become a doctor (a teacher, an engineer, a lawyer). Our future professions are different (the same) and the subjects we have to study are different (the same) too, but (and) we like to work together and to help one another in our study. When we have some free time, we go for walks, read and discuss books, watch films, go to discos or play computer games. Playing computer games is our hobby. Both of us are fond of sport. We go in for swimming (tennis) and often go to the swimming pool (tennis court) together. We are football fans and we like to watch and discuss football matches on TV or to go to the stadium. I love my friend very much. I think he (she) is a true friend. Our friendship is very dear to me and I try to do my best to be a good friend too.

Present simple tense

The present tense is the base form of the verb:

I work in London.

But with the third person singular (she/he/it), we add an -s:

She works in London.

Present simple questions

Look at these questions:

Do you play the piano?
Where do you live?
Does Jack play football?
Where does he come from?
Do Rita and Angela live in Manchester?
Where do they work?

We use do and does to make questions with the present simple. We use does for the third person singular (she/he/it) and do for the others.

We use do and does with question words like where, what and when:

Where do Angela and Rita live?
What does Angela do?
When does Rita usually get up?

But questions with who often don't use do or does:

Who lives in London?
Who plays football at the weekend?
Who works at Liverpool City Hospital?

We use object pronouns as the object of a verb:

Can you help me, please?
I can see you.
She doesn't like him.
I saw her in town today.
We saw them in town yesterday, but they didn't see us.
and after prepositions:

She is waiting for me.
I'll get it for you.
Give it to him.
Why are you looking at her?
Don't take it from us.
I'll speak to them.

A 5-6. Soil

Soil is the loose surface material that covers most land. It consists of inorganic particles and organic matter. Soil provides the structural support for plants used in agriculture and is also their source of water and nutrients. In short, soil is a mixture of minerals, dead and living organisms (organic materials), air, and water. These four ingredients react with one another in amazing ways, making soil one of our planet's most dynamic and important natural resources. Soil is used by people in numerous ways.

Possessive pronouns

As their names imply, both possessive adjectives and possessive pronouns show ownership. The independent possessive pronouns are mine, ours, yours, his, hers, its, and theirs. The possessive adjectives, also called possessive determiners, are my, our, your, his, her, its, and their. We break down each type and offer examples of their usage below.

Independent possessive pronouns

Possessive pronouns are a type of possessive noun. Also called absolute possessive pronouns, possessive pronouns simplify constructions that show possession of a noun by replacing it—in other words, independent possessive pronouns must stand alone and be used without a noun. To understand how possessive pronouns can make things simpler and clearer, first take a look at this example of a sentence that does not use a possessive pronoun:

Raúl's peace lilies were healthier than my peace lilies.

It sounds repetitive and feels a little unnecessary to state “peace lilies” twice in this sentence. Rewriting with a possessive pronoun simplifies things:

Raúl's peace lilies were healthier than mine.

Possessive pronoun examples

My phone is dead. Pass me yours.

Did you know that Labrador is mine?

The house on the corner is theirs.

As you can see, it is common to see independent possessive pronouns at the ends of clauses or phrases.

Possessive adjectives

Possessive adjectives also clarify who or what owns something. Unlike possessive pronouns—which replace nouns—possessive adjectives go before nouns to modify them.

Like independent possessive pronouns, possessive adjectives can help streamline sentences. To see what we mean, take a look at a sentence that does not have any possessive adjectives—and sounds a little clunky as a result:

Jane takes pride in Jane's outfits.

It sounds odd to use Jane's name twice in this sentence. A possessive adjective modifying the noun outfits solves the problem:

Jane takes pride in her outfits.

Thus, possessive adjectives are quite handy and are used frequently in the English language.

Possessive adjective examples

My plane is delayed.

Your dinner is ready.

Could you bring his tea out to him?

Remember not to judge a book by its cover.

I would have knocked on their door, but I heard their baby crying.

A common mistake: its vs. it's

A common mistake is putting an apostrophe in the possessive adjective its. It is easy to confuse its with the contraction of it is, it's, which does have an apostrophe. Remember, though, possessive adjectives never use apostrophes.

The boat lost it's mast in the storm.

The boat lost its mast in the storm.

A7-8 Horticulture

Horticulture is the art and science of growing plants. This definition is seen in its etymology, which is derived from the Latin words hortus, which means "garden" and cultura which means "to cultivate". Some examples are cereals, pulses, roots and tubers, sugar crops, some oilseed crops, vegetable crops and some crops to feed animals (fodder). Other crops are sown or planted once and not replanted after each annual harvest. These are called permanent crops and are mainly trees, bushes, shrubs, vines and palms. Horticulture is the branch of agriculture that deals with growing plants used by people for food and medicine, as well as gardens and other forms of ornamental plants. This includes everything from fruits and vegetables to ornamental plants to spices.

GRAMMAR: THERE IS/ THERE ARE

There is... There are...

- There is three umbrellas in the corner.
- There are some cake on the table.
- There is two apples on the plate.
- There are many potato in the basket.
- There is two tomatoes on the plate.

Positive Sentences

We use there is for singular and there are for plural.

- There is one table in the classroom.
- There are three chairs in the classroom.
- There is a spider in the bath.
- There are many people at the bus stop.

We also use There is with uncountable nouns:

- There is milk in the fridge.
- There is some sugar on the table.
- There is ice cream on your shirt.

Contractions

The contraction of there is is there's.

- There's a good song on the radio.
- There's only one chocolate left in the box.

You cannot contract there are.

- There are nine cats on the roof.
- There are only five weeks until my birthday.

Negative Form

The negative is formed by putting not after is or are:

- There is not a horse in the field.
- There are not eight children in the school.
- There is not a tree in the garden.
- There are not two elephants in the zoo.

We almost always use contractions when speaking.

The Negative contractions are:

- There's not = There isn't
- There are not = There aren't

There aren't with ANY

When we want to indicate that a zero quantity of something exists we use there aren't any.

- There aren't any people at the party.

- There aren't any trees in my street.

We also use this structure with uncountable nouns:

- There isn't any water in the swimming pool.
- There isn't any sugar in my coffee.

Questions

To form a question we place is / are in front of there.

Again we use any with plural questions or those which use uncountable nouns.

We also use there is / are in short answers.

- Is there a dog in the supermarket? - No, there isn't.
- Are there any dogs in the park? - Yes, there are.
- Is there a security guard in the shop? - Yes, there is.
- Are there any polar bears in Antarctica? - No, there aren't.
- Is there any ice-cream in the freezer? - Yes, there is.

A 9-10 My Working Day

I usually get up at 7 o'clock in the morning. I do my morning exercises, but not always, make my bed, wash and dress. Then I sit down to breakfast. At 8 o'clock I leave home and go to school. As a rule I come to school in time as the lessons begin at 9 o'clock. I live not far from school and it usually takes me 15 minutes to get to school on foot.

Usually we have 6 or 7 classes every day and after classes I return home.

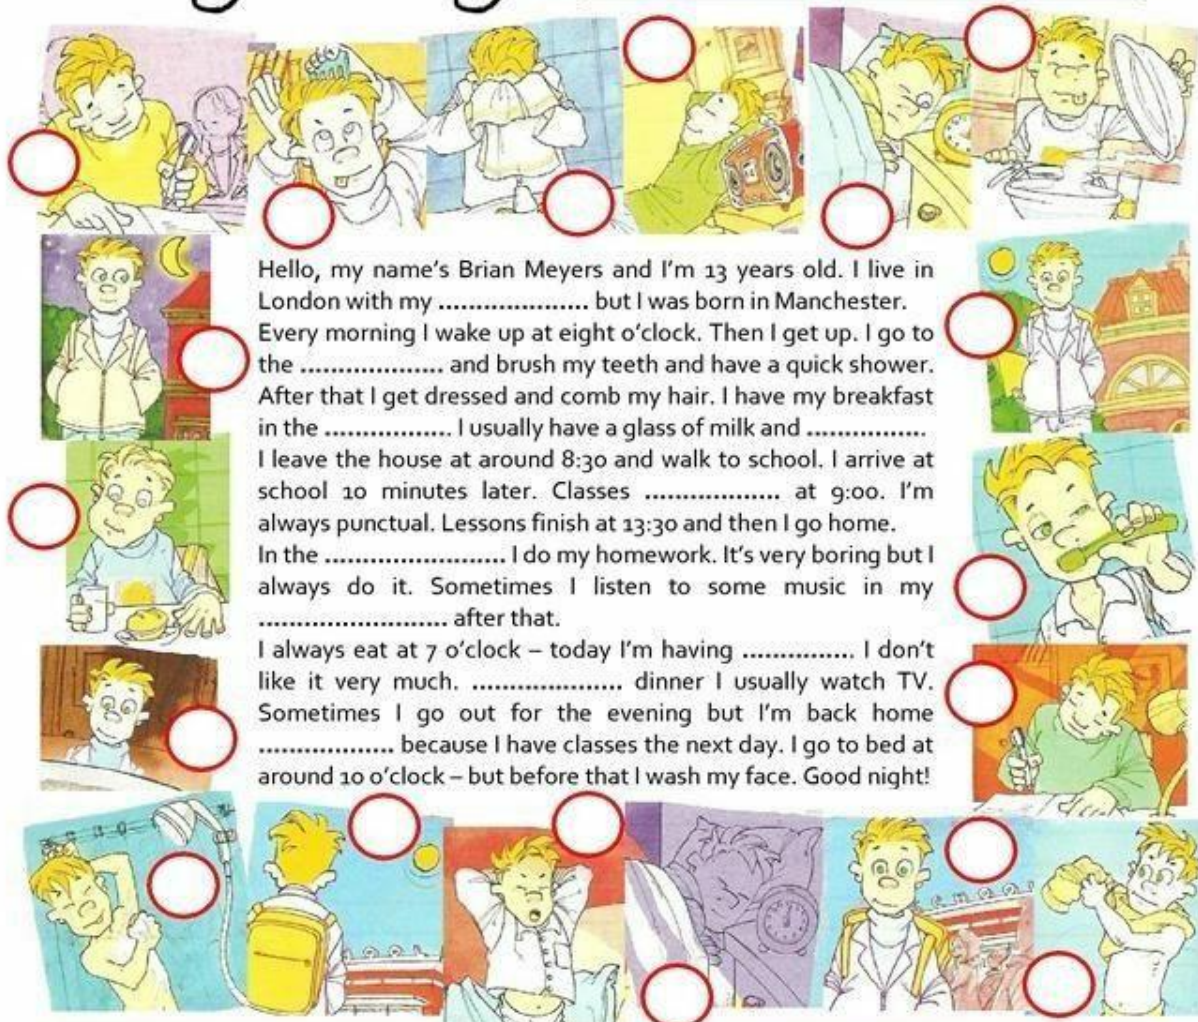

At 3 o'clock I have dinner and rest a little. After that I do my home work and help my mother about the house if she needs my help. Then I have supper and if the weather is good I go for a walk with my friends and if the weather is not good I stay at home something I watch TV; sometimes I listen to music or chat with my friends over the telephone. I never work late in the evening.

At 11 o'clock I usually go to bed but sometimes I watch television till late in the evening and that's why I may go to bed very late. But I always remember the proverb: "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy wealthy and wise."

“Wh”-questions begin with what, when, where, who, whom, which, whose, why and how. We use them to ask for information. The answer cannot be yes or no:

A: When do you finish college?

B: Next year.

A: Who is your favourite actor?

B: George Clooney for sure!

Forming wh-questions

With an auxiliary verb

We usually form wh-questions with wh- + an auxiliary verb (be, do or have) + subject + main verb or with wh- + a modal verb + subject + main verb:

Be: When are you leaving?	Who's been paying the bills?
Do: Where do they live?	Why didn't you call me?
Have: What has she done now?	What have they decided?
Modal: Who would she stay with?	Where should I park?

Without an auxiliary verb

Warning:

When what, who, which or whose is the subject or part of the subject, we do not use the auxiliary. We use the word order subject + verb:

What fell off the wall? Which horse won?

Who bought this? Whose phone rang?

Compare

Who owns this bag?	Who is the subject of the sentence and this bag is the object. We use no auxiliary verb.
Who do you love most?	Who is the object of the sentence and you is the subject. We use the auxiliary verb do .

Responding to wh-questions

Wh-questions ask for information and we do not expect a yes-no answer to a wh-question. We expect an answer which gives information:

A: Where's the coffee machine? (We expect an answer about the location of the coffee machine.)

B: It's in the room next to the reception.

A: How old is your dog? (We expect an answer about the age of the dog.)

B: She's about five. I'm not very sure.

Adding emphasis to wh-questions

We can add emphasis to wh-questions in speaking by stressing the auxiliary verb do. We usually do this when we have not already received the information that we expected from an earlier question, or to show strong interest.

When the wh-word is the object of the sentence, the do auxiliary is stressed to make it more emphatic:

A: How was your weekend in Edinburgh?

B: I didn't go to Edinburgh.

A: Really. Where did you go?

B: We decided to go to Glasgow instead.

When the wh-word is the subject of the sentence, we can add the auxiliary do to make it emphatic. We stress do:

A: Ronald Price lives in that house, doesn't he?

B: No. He moved out.

A: So who does live there? (non-emphatic question: So who lives there?)

B: Actually, his son is living there now.

See also:

- Intonation and wh-questions

Negative wh-questions

When we ask negative wh-questions, we use the auxiliary verb do when there is no other auxiliary or modal verb, even when the wh-word is the subject of the clause:

Affirmative with no auxiliary	Negative with auxiliary do
Who wants an ice cream?	Who doesn't want an ice cream?
Which door opened?	Which door didn't open?

Adding a wh-word at the end of a statement to make a question

Spoken English:

In speaking, we can sometimes turn wh-questions into statement questions:

What's today's date? or Today's date is what?

We do this especially when we are checking information that we have already been given or when we want to quickly check a particular detail. These are less formal than full wh-questions:

A: So we're all going to be there at eight?

B: Right, I'm travelling with Larry.

A: You're travelling with who? (more formal: Who are you travelling with?)

B: With Larry. We're actually going on our bikes.

A: Is your sister here too or just your mother?

B: Just my mother.

A: And she's here until when? (more formal: And when is she here until? or even more formal: Until when is she here?)

Grammar: Prepositions of time: in, at, on

Months — in March, in October

Seasons — in the Summer, in the Winter

Years — in 1991, in 2018

Decades — in the 2000s, in the 1960s

Centuries — in the 21st century

Unspecified Periods of Time — in the past, in the future

Below I have listed some example sentences where the preposition ‘in’ is being used in various ways associated with describing time.

- My birthday is in October.
- It is the hottest time of the year here in the summer.
- In the 1960s, John F. Kennedy was President of the United States.
 - As you can see, the preposition of time ‘in’ can be used towards in the middle of the sentence but also at the beginning of a sentence as its first word especially when describing a decade.
 - When it comes to the preposition ‘on’, it can also be used in a number of ways. ‘On’ is specifically used for describing days of the weeks, part(s) of the day, specific dates, and special days such as anniversaries, birthdays, weddings, etc.
 - Days of the week — on Monday, on Saturday
 - Specific part(s) of the day — on Sunday afternoon, on Tuesday night

Specific date(s) — on December 31st, on April 1st

Special days — on our anniversary, on my birthday, on the wedding day

Here are some examples below of how the preposition ‘on’ can be used correctly according to its various usages related to the descriptions above:

- On Friday evenings, I like to go to the movies with my girlfriend.
- We went to the baseball game together on my birthday.
 - April Fools day is known to be on April 1st.

‘On’ can be used in various parts of the overall sentence and is not solely restricted to the beginning or end of a regular sentence. It’s important to note that ‘on’ is a preposition that is more specific in its purposes when compared to the preposition ‘in’ when it is used for time.

Next, we have the last preposition of time which could be considered one of the three musketeers of prepositions. ‘At’ has a variety of uses and is known for being the most specific of the three main prepositions of time. ‘At’ can be mainly used for describing times on the clock, festivals, holidays, and more general times of the day or night.

Times on the clock — at 5:30, at 4:15

Festivals / Holidays — at Christmas, at Thanksgiving

General times of the day — at night, at lunchtime

Listed below are some key examples to draw from when it comes to being able to use the preposition ‘at’ in the right context and with the right usage:

- Chris gets out of his soccer practice at 5:00.
- We get together as a family at Christmas time.
- The couple likes to go out and dance Salsa at night.

Commodities storage and processing do play a vital role in availability for food round the year. During past few decades, Storage godowns have been under gone remarkable changes. Which make enables the availability of food items across the international borders and throughout the years. Scientific storage and processing of food is necessary for survival of human being. Warehousing is the key point of food security across the globe. It gives scientific and economically beneficial solutions to all farming community. There is need of blend in management with design of warehousing in order to enhance the utilizing capacity. It is being observed that farming is still very low mechanized and using traditional ways of warehousing instead of modern scientific methods. Here we try to pay attention to modern techniques with blend of efficient management.

What is a demonstrative pronoun?

The demonstrative pronouns this, that, these, and those are used to represent an already mentioned or implied word or phrase, helping make communication faster and easier.

See the red jacket? I want that.

In the demonstrative (pronounced deh-mon-struh-tiv) pronoun example above, the word that represents the red jacket mentioned earlier. The speaker is really saying, “I want the red jacket.”

All pronouns, demonstrative pronouns can refer to anything. However, the speaker must make it clear what they are talking about; when they don't, demonstrative pronouns become confusing. The thing a pronoun represents is called the antecedent; in the demonstrative pronoun example above, the antecedent is the red jacket.

How to use demonstrative pronouns

When writing, you have to use the right type of demonstrative pronoun. The four demonstrative pronouns are divided into two categories: singular/plural and near/far.

Singular/plural refers to the number of the antecedent. If the antecedent is one thing, use the singular demonstrative pronouns this or that. If the antecedent is multiple things, use the plural demonstrative pronouns these or those.

Don't touch the chocolate cupcake. That is mine.

Don't touch the chocolate cookies. Those are mine.

Near/far can mean distance or time. The near demonstrative pronouns this and these can refer to something close to the speaker or something that happened or was mentioned recently. That and those represent something physically farther away or that happened longer ago.

The movie last night was awful. This is the last time you recommend one.

The movie two weeks ago was worse. That was a nightmare!

Be careful, because demonstrative pronouns aren't always used literally. They can also be used figuratively to describe an idea or concept instead of an actual thing with distance.

Your relationship stresses you out. Do you want that in your life?

If you're not sure whether you're using demonstrative pronouns correctly, write or paste your sentence in our free grammar checker. It will tell you if it's right or if there's something you need to change.

Demonstrative pronoun examples

	Near	Far
Singular	this	that
Plural	these	those

Demonstrative pronoun examples: Sentences

I need a new hat. This is old and smells bad.

Your choice is brilliant, but I like this.

Do you remember the book you read? What was the name of that?

We'll be fine if you get laid off, but that won't happen.

The new dresses are expensive. I can't sell these.

I'm searching for robots, but these aren't the ones I'm looking for.

The bananas are three weeks old! Throw those out!

Not everyone has been lucky like I have been, so I help those who need it.

Demonstrative pronouns vs. demonstrative determiners (demonstrative adjectives)

The words this, that, these, and those can also be used as determiners instead of pronouns. Determiners modify nouns just like adjectives do, so demonstrative determiners are also called demonstrative adjectives.

Demonstrative determiners are also divided by near and far. When they modify a noun, they can show that it's something close to the speaker, or they can indicate more distance.

I don't like this restaurant next to us. Let's eat at that café across the street.

In the examples, this modifies restaurant to show it's closer to the speaker, while that modifies café to show it's farther away.

Like demonstrative pronouns, demonstrative determiners also use singular and plural. Use the singular form when modifying singular nouns and the plural form when modifying plural nouns.

This tree is a thousand years old.*

These trees are a thousand years old.*

Antecedents of demonstrative pronouns

When using demonstrative pronouns, it's important to make it clear what the antecedent is. Otherwise, your listener or reader won't know what you're referring to when you say this, that, these, or those. When a pronoun represents an unknown word, we call that an ambiguous antecedent.

We can either go bowling or see a movie. Let's do that.

In this example, it's not clear what that refers to. It could refer to "go bowling" or to "see a movie." This makes it an ambiguous antecedent. To fix it, you need to be more clear about what that means.

We can either go bowling or see a movie. I love bowling, so let's do that.

Sometimes, however, you don't need to mention the antecedent because it's clear from context. In other words, it's obvious what the demonstrative pronoun refers to, so you don't have to mention it. These are called implied antecedents.

For example, let's say you're driving, and you hear a funny sound from the engine. You can say:

That's not good.*

It's obvious the word that refers to the sound. Implied antecedents are common in speech, especially when you can gesture with your hands. For example, if you point your finger and say, "Look at that!" it's clear the word that means whatever you're pointing at.

Other uses of that

Be careful with the word that; it has many different meanings. In addition to being a demonstrative pronoun and a demonstrative determiner, as we said above, that is also a relative pronoun. Relative pronouns like that, which, who, and whom are words that can join other clauses or introduce a new relative clause.

When joining clauses, the word that acts as a subordinating conjunction to introduce a subordinate clause. This use of that is completely different from how it's used as a demonstrative pronoun and should be treated like a different word.

She said that that was the last slice of pizza.

In the example above, the first that is a subordinating conjunction, and the second that is a demonstrative pronoun. When using that as a conjunction, be careful about confusing which vs. that.

As a relative pronoun, that can also begin a new clause called a relative clause. A relative clause is a type of adjective phrase used to describe or modify a noun.

Let's play a game that is easy to learn.

In this example, the relative pronoun that introduces the relative clause that is easy to learn. This relative clause modifies the noun game, so the speaker is talking about an easy-to-learn game.

A 15-16. Seed production

When producing seed, the home garden manager must consider the following.

- Seeds should be saved from healthy, vigorous plants only.
- The plants from which seeds are to be saved should be marked and observed during their whole growth period.
- No seeds should be extracted from diseased and/or pest-infected plants. Undesirable plants should be removed and eaten by the household.
- If large amounts of seed are required, a plot should be reserved for seed production alone, in isolation from other similar crops.
- The exchange of good seeds among individual home garden managers facilitates the improvement of the seed stock over time and is, therefore, highly recommended.
- The local production of the seeds of cucurbits, chilli peppers and beans is of particular importance. Not only are they important food crops in Africa, they are also especially liked for their colour, taste and spiciness.

HARVESTING AND PROCESSING SEED

Seeds are harvested and processed as follows:

- Ferment fleshy fruits until the seeds can be separated from the pulp. For some varieties of fruits, the pulp can be removed and eaten and the stones used as seed once properly dried.
- Once seeds are harvested, dry seeds in the shade. To avoid contamination with soil-borne diseases, do not place them on the ground. Once dry, seeds should be cleaned of all foreign matter before storage.
- Some seeds formed in pods should be left to dry in their pods on the plant. When the seeds are properly dried, the pods are removed from the plant. If the pods are removed from the plant before the seeds are properly dried, the pods must be dried further before they are placed in storage.

STORING SEED

Seeds should be stored in a cool, dry place, preferably in airtight containers (e.g. plastic bags or sealed clay pots). Generally, the moisture content of seeds should be kept low, especially if temperatures are high. Experts can provide advice to home garden managers on the viability of the different seed types.

Grammar: Present Continuous Tense

Affirmative

The present continuous, in the affirmative form, is used to confirm situations that are going on around the moment of speaking.

The structure is: Subject + to be + [verb + -ing] + ...

For example:

— “You are eating.” = We use the present continuous to express an action that takes place while talking (in that moment).

♦ “You eat.” = We use the present simple to express an action that happens repeatedly or always in the present.

There are some irregularities, depending on the ending of the verb.

For example:

— Suffix -e: drop -e and add -ing. “Shake” ⇒ “This winter is so cold, I am shaking.”

— Vowel after a consonant, verbs with the accent on the last syllable and verbs ending in -l: double the consonant. “Put” ⇒ “He is putting his grandson to sleep.”

— Suffix -ie: drop -ie and add -ying: “Tie” ⇒ “My cousin has problems with tying his shoes.”

Negative

The present continuous, in the negative form, is used to deny situations that are going on around the moment of speaking.

The structure is: Subject + to be + not + [verb + -ing] + ...

For example:

— “You aren’t eating.” = We use the present continuous to express an action that takes place while talking (in that moment).

♦ “You don’t eat.” = We use the present simple to express an action that happens repeatedly or always in the present.

Interrogative

The present continuous, in the interrogative form, is used to ask about situations that are going on around the moment of speaking.

The structure is: To be + subject + [verb + -ing] + ...?

For example:

— “Are you eating?” = We use the present continuous to ask about an action that takes place whilst talking (in that moment).

♦ “Do you eat?” = We use the present simple to ask about an action that happens repeatedly or always in the present.

A 17-18 Jobs and professions

As has been the case for many years, jobs, or forms of employment wherein employees perform a service or duty in exchange for financial compensation, play a prominent role in society. Furthermore, all jobs—even those of seemingly little significance—are important, as they simply wouldn't exist if their specific responsibilities weren't of value to employers (companies or persons that pay others for their work), customers (individuals who pay money for a product or service), and the economy generally.

Teachers, or educational professionals tasked with helping students understand certain subjects and topics, are especially crucial today. In short, teachers help their students to become qualified for their future careers.

Doctors, or medical professionals who specialize in providing health-related assistance to patients, are some of the most respected individuals in America and the world. It's the responsibility of doctors to help those who feel less-than-stellar to determine the underlying health issue(s) and recommend an effective treatment (or remedy to a disease, disorder, or condition).

There are quite a few types of specialty doctors in America (besides MD, which simply means "medical doctor"), all of whom can be referred to simply as "Doctor (Name)." Dentists (mouth/teeth doctors), dermatologists (skin doctors), and psychiatrists (mental-health doctors) are just a few examples of the many different types of doctors.

Additionally, nurses are medical professionals who help to administer doctor-ordered treatments to patients.

Police officers are law enforcement professionals whose job it is to protect citizens, solve crimes, and assure that rules and regulations are followed. Similarly, firefighters serve the public by responding to fires (and other emergency situations) and using high-tech equipment to extinguish these fires, while bringing any individuals who're in danger to safety.

Past simple tense va uning qo'llanish holatlari

- Past simple tense - oddiy o'tgan zamon o'tgan zamonda sodir bo'lgan va tugallangan ish-harakatni bildiradi. Ish-harakatning hozirgi zamonga aloqasi yo'q.
- Oddiy o'tgan zamonning qolipi gapda qanday fe'l qo'llanishiga qarab, darak gaplarda to'g'ri fe'llarga -ed qo'shimchasini qo'shish yoki noto'g'ri fe'llarning past simple (verb ii) shaklini qo'llash bilan hosil qilinadi.
- Oddiy o'tgan zamonda inkor va so'roq gaplarda did yordamchi fe'li ishlatiladi va ular ishlatilganda asosiy fe'l hech qanday o'zgarishsiz (infinitive shaklida) qo'llanadi.
- Positive form:

- ◆ I went/worked
- ◆ He/she/it went/worked
- ◆ We/you/they went/worked

▪ Negative form:

- ◆ I didn't go/work
- ◆ He/she/it didn't go/work
- ◆ We/you/they didn't go/work

▪ Question form:

- ◆ Did I go/work?
- ◆ Did he/she/it go/work?
- ◆ Did we/you/they go/work?

Misollar:

- ◆ I washed my car yesterday. (Men kecha mashinamni yuvdim)
- ◆ They bought a new house in 1998. (Ular 1998-yilda yangi uy sotib olishgandi)

💡 Yuqoridagidan shu narsa ma'lum bo'ladiki, o'tgan zamonda asosiy va yordamchi fe'llar hamma shaxslar uchun bir xil.

⚠ O'tgan zamonda to be fe'lining o'z shakllari (was/were) mavjud bo'lib, inkor va so'roq gaplarda did yordamchi fe'li qo'llanmaydi.

- Positive form: I/he/she/it was ▪ We/you/they were
- Negative form: I/he/she/it was not ▪ We/you/they were not
- Question form: Was I/he/she/it...? ▪ Were we/you/they...?

▪ Misol:

- ◆ I wasn't at home yesterday. (I didn't be.... emas)

✳ Past simple tense qo'llanish holatlari

① Mazkur zamonning o'ziga xosligi shundaki, odatda o'tgan zamon payt ravishlari bilan qo'llaniladi, ya'ni ish-harakat(voqea) o'tgan zamonda sodir bo'lganligi payt ravishlari bilan yaqqol ko'rsatiladi.

- ◆ We went to the theatre last week. (Biz o'tgan hafta teatrga bordik)
- ◆ I saw Jack at the cinema yesterday.
- ◆ I didn't go out last night.

② Shu bilan birga, o'tgan zamon payt ravishlarisiz, tarixda sodir bo'lgan voqealar uchun qollaniladi. Bu vaziyatda matn mazmunidan ish-harakat tarixda sodir bo'lganligi anglashiladi:

- ◆ Aristotel was a great philosopher. (Aristotel juda o'tkir faylasuf bo'lgan)
- ◆ Shakespeare wrote Hamlet.
- ◆ The Chinese invented printing. (Xitoylikdan kitob bosishni kashf qilishgan)

- O'tgan zamonning odatiy payt ravishlari quyidagilardan iborat:
- last+night/week/Monday/month/year... ▫ a day /a week/two years/six minutes+ago
- yesterday ▫ in the 1960's ▫ the other day ▫ in the 19th century ▫ in the past ▫ just now ▫ in the Bronze Age ▫ in the Middle Ages ▫ the last time ⚠ 'just now' payt ravishi "hozirgina, "bir necha daqiqa oldin" ma'nolarida o'tgan zamonda qo'llaniladi.

- ◆ I saw him just now.

Grammar: Past Simple

he past simple is the tense used to express situations, events and actions that happened in the past.

Affirmative

The past simple is used, in the affirmative form, to confirm situations that occurred in the past and have now concluded.

The structure of regular verbs is: Subject + [past form of the verb] + ...

For example:

- Regular verbs: “You ask.” ⇒ “You asked.” = We just add -ed.

The past simple tense of regular verbs is formed differently depending on the base form of the verb used.

For example:

- Suffix -y: “I try.” ⇒ “I tried.” = We change -y to i and add -ed.
- Suffix -e: “I dance.” ⇒ “I danced.” = We just add -d.
- Suffix with stressed vowel + consonant (except -w and -y): “I plan.” ⇒ “I planned.” = We double the consonant and add -ed.

Negative

The past simple, in its negative form, is used to deny situations that occurred in the past and have now concluded.

The structure is: Subject + did + not + verb + ...

For example:

- “You didn't ask.” = We use the past simple to express a past event that didn't occur.

Interrogative

The past simple, in its interrogative form, is used to ask about situations that occurred in the past and have now concluded.

The structure is: Did + subject + verb + ...?

For example:

- “Did you ask?” = We use the past simple to ask questions about a past event.

Past Simple of Irregular Verbs

many verbs have irregular past simple forms.

The most commonly used are: become ⇒ became, break ⇒ broke, bring ⇒ brought, buy ⇒ bought, do ⇒ did, draw ⇒ drew, drink ⇒ drank, eat ⇒ ate, feel ⇒ felt, find ⇒ found, go ⇒ went, have ⇒ had, hear ⇒ heard, keep ⇒ kept, read ⇒ read, run ⇒ ran, say ⇒ said, see ⇒ saw, teach ⇒ taught, write ⇒ wrote.

For example:

— Correct: “I left my blanket under the tree.” / Incorrect: “I leaved my blanket under the tree.” = The verb leave changes to left, because it is an irregular verb.

A21-22 Birds

Birds are a group of warm-blooded vertebrates constituting the class Aves (/'eɪvɪːz/), characterised by feathers, toothless beaked jaws, the laying of hard-shelled eggs, a high metabolic rate, a four-chambered heart, and a strong yet lightweight skeleton. Birds live worldwide and range in size from the 5.5 cm (2.2 in) bee hummingbird to the 2.8 m (9 ft 2 in) common ostrich. There are over 11,000 living species, more than half of which are passerine, or "perching" birds. Birds have wings whose development varies according to species; the only known groups without wings are the extinct moa and elephant birds. Wings, which are modified forelimbs, gave birds the ability to fly, although further evolution has led to the loss of flight in some birds, including ratites, penguins, and diverse endemic island species. The digestive and respiratory systems of birds are also uniquely adapted for flight. Some bird species of aquatic environments, particularly seabirds and some waterbirds, have further evolved for swimming. The study of birds is called ornithology.

Birds are feathered theropod dinosaurs and constitute the only known living dinosaurs. Likewise, birds are considered reptiles in the modern cladistic sense of the term, and their closest living relatives are the crocodilians. Birds are descendants of the primitive avialans (whose members include Archaeopteryx) which first appeared during the Late Jurassic. According to recent estimates, modern birds (Neornithes) evolved in the Late Cretaceous and diversified dramatically around the time of the Cretaceous–Paleogene extinction event 66 million years ago, which killed off the pterosaurs and all non-avian dinosaurs.^[7]

Many social species preserve knowledge across generations (culture). Birds are social, communicating with visual signals, calls, and songs, and participating in such behaviours as cooperative breeding and hunting, flocking, and mobbing of predators. The vast majority of bird species are socially (but not necessarily sexually) monogamous, usually for one breeding season at a time, sometimes for years, and rarely for life. Other species have breeding systems that are polygynous (one male with many females) or, rarely, polyandrous (one female with many males). Birds produce offspring by laying eggs which are fertilised through sexual reproduction. They are usually laid in a nest and incubated by the parents. Most birds have an extended period of parental care after hatching.

Many species of birds are economically important as food for human consumption and raw material in manufacturing, with domesticated and undomesticated birds being important sources of eggs, meat, and feathers. Songbirds, parrots, and other species are popular as pets. Guano (bird excrement) is harvested for use as a fertiliser. Birds figure throughout human culture. About 120 to 130 species have become extinct due to human activity since the 17th century, and hundreds more before then. Human activity threatens about 1,200 bird species with extinction, though efforts are underway to protect them. Recreational birdwatching is an important part of the ecotourism industry.

- Grammar: Modal verb: Can/Can't

What are friendly animals?

As the name 'friendly' suggests, friendly animals are those who become friends with other animals and human beings.

Friendly animals include the home animals and the other jungle or wild animals.

First on our list of the top 10 friendliest animals in the world is man's best friend – dogs. One can find a dog in his neighborhood easily nowadays as it is a very friendly animal. Dogs are among the friendliest and most loyal animals in the world. They have such innocent faces that can melt anyone's heart. Dogs are good at understanding our emotions and sentiments due for this reason they are referred to as human best friends. They belong to the same genus as that wolves. Dogs are being domesticized for thousand of years ago. Dogs have a loving nature due to which they are the favorite of human beings.

They are kept for security purposes by most humans.

Horses are renowned friendly domestic animals in farms as well as homes. Horses are known for their luxurious life. The horse is a glorious animal having more than 300 breeds in the world. Horses may differ in size and nature but they have one thing in common amongst them which is their friendly nature.

It is also known that a group of horses never sleep at night as one amongst them stays awake for protection. Horses are useful in farm work, sports, police work, and entertainment, etc. The horse is not able to breath from their mouth like humans.

They only breath through their noses. The horse has a locking system in their legs which allow them to sleep while standing. Horses have very fast reflexes as compared to human beings. Horses have ten different muscles in their ears.

Horses do not have teeth in the middle of their mouth. Due to their social nature, they get friendly with human beings. Horses can sleep both by standing or lying down. Studies indicate that horses perform cognitive tasks on daily basis. Horses have strong flight or fight responses.

Rabbits or bunnies are small-sized mammals that are both domestic and livestock pet. Rabbits have egg-shaped bodies covered with smooth hairs making their lovable pets. Rabbits require a good diet and a healthy environment for their growth. Rabbit is a very active and friendly animal known.

Different type of rabbit has a different personality. Rabbit likes to get friendly with either other rabbit or human being. Rabbit as a pet requires proper attention and care from his / her owner. Rabbits can live for 10 to 15 years. Rabbits require a healthy and balanced diet, not just vegetables. Rabbits do require proper medical care.

Rabbits are great listeners, so they respond actively to human beings making them more friendly. Rabbits are herbivores that make and individual healthy too. Rabbits are talented comedians. Rabbits do not require to get a bath as they keep themselves clean. Rabbits are definitely worthy mention as part of the top 10 friendliest animals in the world.

Sheep, as a friendly animal, are used for agricultural purposes. Sheep are more friendly and familiar to those who keep them and feed them regularly. Sheep are mostly kept by the farmers for their meat, wool, and milk. Wool is an essential product of sheep which a farmer gets by shearing.

Sheep contain a nice feature that helps in forming a good bond with the person who owns it. If sheep are provided with proper feed and care, then they will become more friendly. Sheeps are very easy to train. Sheep can help in improving the quality of lawns as there produce fantastic fertilizer.

Sheep is a surprisingly very intelligent animal as they can recognize a human face and can remember them for years. Sheep are an essential part of the agricultural economy. Domestic sheep provide a wide variety of raw materials which further turn out to be of good use. Sheep milk contains many nutrients that can even cure dengue fever in humans.

Grammar: Prepositions.

A preposition is a word or group of words used before a noun, pronoun, or noun phrase to show direction, time, place, location, spatial relationships, or to introduce an object. Some examples of prepositions are words like "in," "at," "on," "of," and "to."

Rules for Prepositions

- Rule 1- Prepositions must have an object.
- Rule 2- Must be placed before.
- Rule 3- The Pronoun following the Preposition should be an object form.
- Rule 4- Prepositions form.
- Rule 5- Do not confuse preposition 'to' with infinitive 'to'

- Rule 6- A Verb cannot be an object of a preposition.

There are five types of prepositions.

They are simple, double, compound, participle, and phrase prepositions. A preposition is used to show a relationship between the noun, pronoun, or phrases in a sentence.

A 29-30. Medicinal plants

Medicinal plants have been used against various diseases for thousands of years, and 80% of the worldwide population still depends on herbal medicines. The medicinal plants Artemisia nilagirica, Senegalia visco, Hypericum perforatum, Vaccinium microcarpum, and Curcuma longa are a few samples of plants that have been effectively used against skin diseases. This natural source has generously provided us with bioactive molecules, such as artemetin, lupeol, hypericin, hydroquinone, epicatechin, and curcumin, which have been used against acne, atopic dermatitis, skin cancer, and skin pigmentation disorders. This chapter presents a list of medicinal plants traditionally used for curing skin disorders, their bioactive molecules, and their modes of action.

Some , any

How to Use ANY in English

We use ‘any’ in negative sentences (with doesn’t, don’t, didn’t, etc.) and with words that have a negative meaning, such as ‘never’, ‘without’, ‘refuse’, etc. So we can say,

“He never says anything.”

“We didn’t stop anywhere.”

“They did it without any difficulty.”

“She refused to give him any attention.”

We also use ‘any’ in most questions, and often with ‘if’. For example,

“Did anyone understand this?”

“Do you know any good bars?”

“Have you seen any good movies lately?”

“If they need any help, tell them to call me.”

“I think a hero is any person really intent on making this a better place for all people.”

— Maya Angelou

How to Use SOME in English

We generally use ‘some’ and words that start with ‘some’ (someone, somebody, etc.) in affirmative sentences. So we can say,

“There is someone at the door.”

“He has some interesting stories.”

We use ‘some’ when we don’t care about the quantity or the amount. For example,

“There’s some spaghetti sauce on your face.”

We also use ‘some’ when something or someone is unknown or unfamiliar. So we can say,

“Some guy called for you while you were gone. Here’s his number.”

“Some lady was asking about you. I told her to come back in an hour.”

As I mentioned earlier, we use ‘any’ in most questions. But there are some exceptions. For instance, when we make offers or requests, we use ‘some’. So, if you’re with friends and you’d like to offer them drinks, you can say,

“Would you like some wine?”

“Would you like something to drink?”

Similarly, if you’re making a request, you can say,

“Can I have some water?”

“Could you lend me some money?”

The Main Difference Between SOME and ANY

As a general rule, we use ‘some’ for affirmative sentences, and ‘any’ for questions or negative sentences.

Usually, both ‘some’ and ‘any’ can only be used with countable plural nouns or uncountable nouns. For example,

“I have some questions.”

"I don't have any questions."

"Do you have any questions?"

Or,

"I have some water."

"I don't have any water."

"Do you have any water?"

But there are some exceptions.

We can use 'any' in affirmative sentences when there's a sense of no limitation.
For example,

"Anyone who works here can help you."

This means that it doesn't matter who you ask, because everyone who works here can help you.

Here are other examples,

"He can eat anything and not gain weight."

"These are great ideas for anyone who works from home."

A 31-32. VEHICLE. TO BE SUPPOSED TO.

A vehicle is a machine to move people and things. A vehicle is not alive. A horse can move people and things, but it is an animal, not a machine or a vehicle. The word vehicle is borrowed from French and Latin. French véhicule, going back to Middle French, borrowed from Medieval Latin vehiculum "medium, agent of transmission," going back to Latin, "wheeled vehicle, means of transport," from vehere "to carry, convey.

Types of vehicles

Land vehicles. Some vehicles move on land. Most land vehicles have wheels. Examples of land vehicles are bicycles, cars, motorcycles, and trains. Land vehicles that are powered by an engine or motor are called motor vehicles. Some land vehicles, like tanks and snowmobiles, have tracks. These tracks look and work like conveyor belts. Water vehicles. Some vehicles move on, or in, the water. Examples are boats, ships, and submarines. Air and space vehicles. Vehicles that move in the sky are called aircraft. Examples are aeroplanes and balloons. Some vehicles, like the Space Shuttle, can even leave the Earth's orbit and go to outer space.

Be Supposed To

Sometimes "it is supposed to..." = it is said to...

Sometimes "be supposed to" has a different meaning. It means supposed to happen = it is planned, arranged or expected. Often this is different from what really happens.

'be + not supposed to' often suggests that something is not allowed or prohibited.

a. It is supposed to be the most delicious steak in town.

b. We were supposed to go to the party but we got an important meeting.

c. She is supposed to finish her homework so she can't come with us.

d. You're not supposed to tell it. It's a secret.

e. She's not supposed to eavesdrop our conversation.

A. Fill in the blanks with the provided words.

1. She was supposed to _____ here at 4 pm.
2. My brother was not supposed to _____ his friend's toys.
3. We are supposed to _____ swimming but it's raining hard right now.
4. Students are supposed to _____ to the teacher's explanation.
5. I'm supposed to _____ groceries this Sunday.
6. They are not supposed to _____ off the event. So many people have bought the tickets.
7. I'm supposed to _____ in at the airport at eight.
8. Brothers and sisters are supposed to _____ along.
9. Those college students are supposed to _____ in the tasks by Friday.
10. He is supposed to _____ surgery immediately.

B. Write your opinions about the sentences below using "be supposed to".

1. My neighbor parked his car in front of my house.

He was supposed to park his car in his own garage.

2. Ruby was late.
3. The party is held at a five-star hotel.
4. The market is open at 7.
5. My little sister gets measles.
6. We will have a music concert next year.

A33-34. Holidays.

Grammar: Verb forms

Holidays In Great Britain

There are fewer public holidays in Great Britain than in other European countries. They are: Christmas Day, Boxing Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, May Day, Spring Bank Holiday and Summer Bank Holiday. Public holidays in Britain are called bank holidays, because the banks as well as most of the offices and shops are closed.

The most popular holiday is Christmas. Every year the people of Norway give the city of London a present. It's a big Christmas tree and it stands in Trafalgar Square. Central streets are beautifully decorated.

Before Christmas, groups of singers go from house to house. They collect money for charity and sing carols, traditional Christmas songs. Many churches hold a carol service on the Sunday before Christmas.

The fun starts the night before, on the 24th of December. Traditionally this is the day when people decorate their trees. Children hang stockings at the end of their beds, hoping that Father Christmas will come down the chimney during the night and fill them with toys and sweets. Christmas is a family holiday. Relatives usually meet for the big Christmas dinner of turkey and Christmas pudding. And everyone gives and receives presents. The 26th of December, Boxing Day, is an extra holiday after Christmas Day. This is the time to visit friends and relatives or perhaps sit at home and watch football.

New Year's Day is less popular in Britain than Christmas. But in Scotland, Hogmanay is the biggest festival of the year.

Besides public holidays there are some special festivals in Great Britain. One of them takes place on the 5th of November. On that day, in 1605, Guy Fawkes tried to blow up the Houses of Parliament and kill King James I. He didn't succeed. The King's men found the bomb, took Guy Fawkes to the Tower and cut off his head.

Since that day the British celebrate the 5th of November. They burn a dummy, made of straw and old clothes, on a bonfire and let off fireworks. This dummy is called a "guy" (like Guy Fawkes) and children can often be seen in the streets before the 5th of November saying, "Penny for the guy." If they collect enough money they can buy some fireworks.

There are also smaller, local festivals in Britain.

2. New Year's Eve in Sydney, Australia

As one of the first cities on the planet to see in the new year, Sydney always goes all out with their New Year's Eve celebrations. Top tip is to go out early to ensure you squeeze all the partying possible out of this city. Loads of family events take place during the day, but the evening focus is always on the Darling Harbour and the Harbour Bridge which make for an awesome backdrop for the most stunning fireworks you'll ever see. Most people tend to head to the Harbour to see in the new year, so be sure to get there early.

Mrs. Macquarie's Chair, in the Botanic Gardens, is a cracking place to see the fireworks – and also one of the most popular. Situated in an outlet up from the Opera House, it faces the Harbour Bridge and offers an amazing view. Dawes Point and Blues Point Reserve are also good spots. The fireworks are all banged popped out by 12.30am, but the parties don't stop until dawn.

You will need to sort your accommodation out well in advance should you want to celebrate new year in Sydney, Australia. Be prepared and book your hostel or hotel early. When we say early, we do mean early. People start booking up hostels around April and they arrive to get the best view points at around noon on the 31st.

Verb Forms in English

Verb Forms: You already know that to describe the action of the subject we use verbs. As you are reading this article, you are doing an act of reading and to describe your action here the verb 'read' is used. In English Grammar, a verb can be modified into different forms to adjust the context of an action performed at a specific time. A verb form helps us in identifying that when the action is being performed by the subject that is either the action is performed at present or in the past or is going to be performed in the near future. In this article, we will discuss the different forms of verbs, their uses in a sentence, and their examples.

Verb Forms

When a verb appears in a sentence in a different or modified way to describe the specific time of the action performed by the subject, it is known as Verb Form. To understand tenses, it is important to learn Verb Forms. In English Grammar there are five types of verb forms but basically there are five forms- third-person singular, present participle, past, and past participle.

1. Present (Root) form of a verb
2. Simple Past form of a verb
3. Present Participle form of verb
4. Third -person singular Present form
5. Past Participle form of a verb

Five Forms of Verbs

There are three forms of verb namely Present, Past, and Past Participle. These forms of verb are commonly named as V1, V2, and V3. By modifying or adding different suffixes or prefixes to the base or root verb we make other different forms of verbs. The root verb is often used to represent the simple present tense. For example- Read, Write, Walk, Play, Run, Go

1. Present (Root) Form of a Verb

This type of verb form, that is root form of verb is the base form of the verb and is used originally without any change into any other form. Root verbs are the basic or original form verbs without any modification or changes. Different forms are formed from the root verbs. In some cases, root verbs are used as simple present forms of verbs. This is commonly called as V1 forms of verb.

Examples of Present (Root) form of verb:

- Nisha love watching movies with my friends. (Base form – love)
- Preeti finish my homework before 6 p.m. everyday.(Base form – finish)
- Chinki play really well. (Root verb – play)

2. Simple past form of a verb

The simple past form of the verb is a verb used to refer to or denote any action that took place in the past or the work that is already done. This form of the verb is also known as the ‘V2’ form of the verb. This form of verb is generally formed by adding (-ed)/(-d) at the end of the main or root verb.

Examples of Simple past form of a verb:

- When a root verb ends with ‘e’ then only (-d) is used to form the simple past form of the verb, otherwise (-ed) is used. For Example- Play- Played, Fill- Filled, Fix- Fixed, Skip- Skipped.
- There are some irregular forms of verbs that are being used in its root or base form of verbs to describe the action that took place in the past. For Example- Cut- Cut, Read-Read, Hurt- Hurt, Shut-Shut, Put-Put, etc.

Simple past forms of verbs can be difficult to determine for some irregular verbs that do not follow the general rule. They neither follow the rule of adding ‘ed’ or ‘d’ nor remain in their root form of verbs. Generally, these forms of verbs need to be remembered. Let's look at some examples to understand it in a much better way: Sing- Sang, Buy - Bought, Loose - Lost, Think - Thought, Fly -Flew, Ring- Rang, Go - Went, Find - Found, etc.

3. Past participle form of a verb

The past participle form of a verb is also known as the ‘V3’ form of a verb. The past participle form of the verb may appear in the present, past, or future perfect tense. Past Particles forms of verbs are also formed by adding ‘-ed’/ ‘-d’ just like simple past but past participles form of verbs always come with an auxiliary verb. As we discussed in the simple past about some irregular verb forms that do not follow the general rule, here in past participles there are also some irregular verbs that need to be remembered. Let’s understand with an example:
For Example-

“Mohan has taken his father to the hospital.” Here, the phrase “has taken” is in the past participle form, as opposed to the Simple past form of the verb took i.e “Mohan took his father to the hospital.”

4. Present Participle form of verb

The present participle verb form is created by adding -ing to the base form. It’s used in the past, present, and future progressive verb tenses. This is V4 form of verb.

Examples of Present Participle form of verb:

- When a verb ends with a vowel followed by a consonant, the last consonant of the word is doubled, and then the (-ing) is added. For example- Run- Running, Swim- Swimming, Cut- Cutting.
- When a verb ends with an ‘e’, then that last ‘e’ is removed, and the (-ing) is added. However, there are some verbs that retain the ‘e’ in the root form when converted to the present participle form of the verb. For example- Educate - Educating, Smile- Smiling, Bake- Baking.

5. Third -Person Singular Present Form

Third-person singular Present form is used to represent simple present tense. It is denoted by addition of -s or-es to the base form. This is V5 form of verb.

Examples of Third-Person singular Present form of verb:

- Rashmi plays badminton well (Base form- Play, Third -Person Singular Present Form- Plays)
- Swati teaches English. (Base form- teach, Third -Person Singular Present Form- teaches)

Usha loves to sing. (Base form- love, Third -Person Singular Present Form- Some Examples of Verb Forms Used in Sentences

1. I am going to school.
2. They have been drawing for hours.
3. Mona loves pizza.
4. I bought a new phone today.
5. The books were stacked on the shelf.
6. I had forgiven him for his behavior.
7. Pawan was playing football yesterday.
8. He has rung the bell.
9. Why do you not come on time?
10. Gagan had lit candles all around the room.

A35-36. News of science and technology

Grammar: Degrees of comparison

Science and technology are important parts of our day to day life. We get up in the morning from the ringing of our alarm clocks and go to bed at night after switching our lights off. All these luxuries that we are able to afford are a resultant of science and technology. Most importantly, how we can do all this in a short time are because of the advancement of science and technology only. It is hard to imagine our life now without science and technology. Indeed our existence itself depends on it now. Every day new technologies are coming up which are making human life easier and more comfortable. Thus, we live in an era of science and technology.

Essentially, Science and Technology have introduced us to the establishment of modern civilization. This development contributes greatly to almost every aspect of our daily life. Hence, people get the chance to enjoy these results, which make our lives more relaxed and pleasurable.

Degree of Comparison

Adjective change in form when they show comparison.

Positive Degree: An adjective is said to be in the positive degree when there is no comparison.

Comparative Degree: An adjective is said to be in the comparative degree when it is used to compare two nouns/pronouns.

Superlative Degree: An adjective is in superlative degree when it is used to compare more than two nouns/pronouns. We use the article 'the' before the superlative degrees.

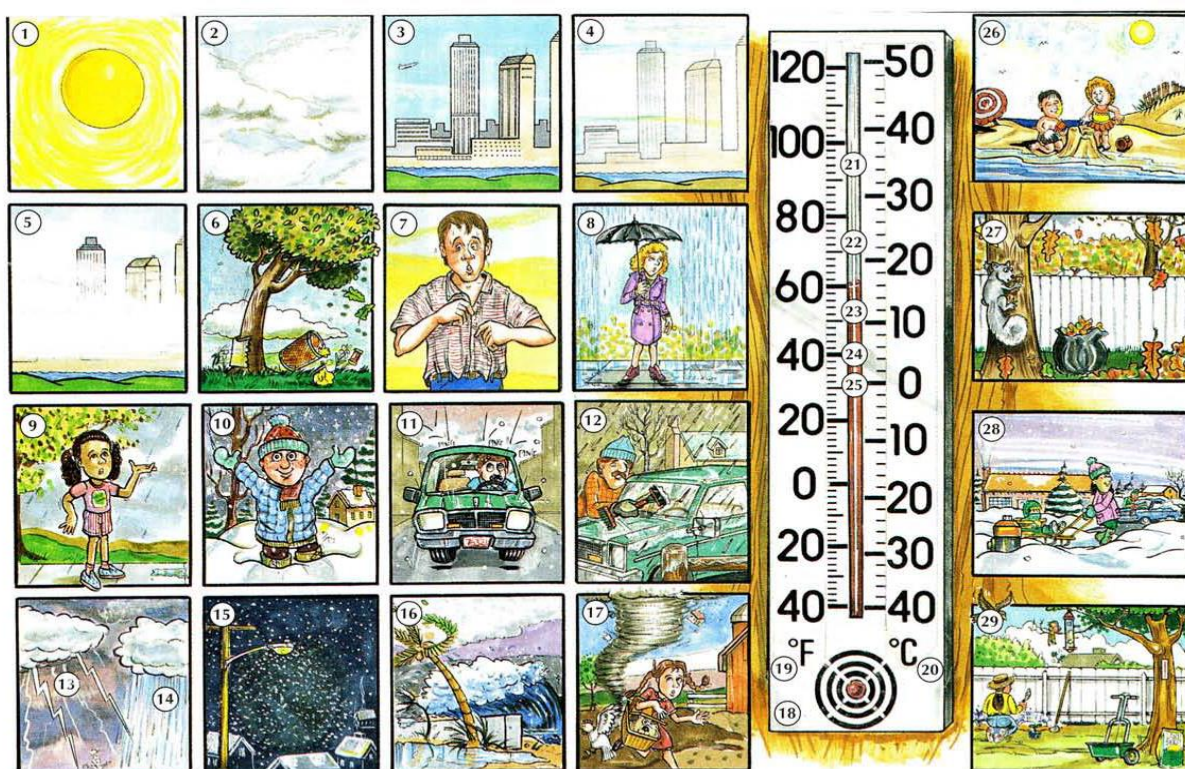

Formation of Comparative & Superlative Degrees of Adjectives
Adjectives usually form their comparative and superlative degrees:

1) by addition of '-er' and '-est' to the positive degree

POSITIVE	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
Bright	Brighter	Brightest
Black	Blacker	Blackest
Bold	Bolder	Boldest
Clever	Cleverer	Cleverest

Grammar: Much/ many; little/few

1. When do we use much and when many?

much: uncountable nouns (milk, marmalade, money, time etc.)

- many: countable nouns (bottles of milk, jars of marmalade, dollars, minutes etc.)

Examples:

How much money have you got?

- How many dollars have you got?

In informal English these questions are often answered with a lot of, lots of. There is no much difference between the two phrases.

2. When do we use a little/little and when a few/few?

- a little: non countable nouns (milk, marmalade, money, time etc.)
- a few: countable nouns (bottles of milk, jars of marmalade, dollars, minutes etc.)

Examples:

He has a little money left.

- He has a few dollars left.

We use few and little without the article a to point out a more negative meaning.

Examples:

A few students of our school know this. (There are some student who know it.)

- Few students know this. (It is almost unknown.)

• few, little

- 1. Ann is very busy these days. She has free time.
- 2. You take photographs when you were on holidays.
- 3. I'm not very busy today.
- But I have got spare time to do smth..
- 4. The museum was not very crowded. There were people.
- 5. Most of the town is modern. There are old buildings.
- 6. The weather has been very dry recently. We've had rain.

• much, many

- 1. Have you got books?
- 2. I don't have time to do sport.

- 3. How people came to the meeting?
- 4. Are there students in the class?
- 5. I didn't see of the film because I fell asleep.
- 6. How coffee did you buy?
- 7. How cups of coffee did you buy?

A39-40 Plant science

Plant science is the term given to a range of research and scientific studies that explore the estimated 410,000 species of land plant found on the earth. Plant science encompasses 'Botany' from the Greek word βοτάνη (botanē) meaning pasture or fodder, in that it involves the observation of plant growth and characteristics and investigation into the relationship between plants and their environment. But it is also much, much more... The huge diversity of research covered under the umbrella 'plant science' term, is well represented at the John Innes Centre. For example the laboratory of Professor Enrico Coen studies how small groups of cells in microscopic buds turn themselves into the diverse flower and leaf shapes we see all around us. While, Professor Ray Dixon's group focuses on how plants respond to environmental cues at a molecular level, to try and understand the process of biological nitrogen fixation in bacteria and its regulation. The biochemistry and primary metabolism of plants, including the chemicals and molecules made by them, and the interaction of plants with pests and diseases are all important areas of research. Professor Sarah O'Connor has published extensive work on the biosynthesis of complex chemicals by plants which can be very hard to make in the laboratory. As such, the potential to use plants as factories could be very valuable. After all, plants already excel at making complex chemicals, for example the Madagascan periwinkle, produces vinblastine and vincristine, both of which are used as anti-cancer drugs. It is impossible to produce these molecules in a conventional laboratory, but it may be possible to harness the power of plants to produce these life-saving drugs more quickly and more cheaply in the future. Traditionally 'Botany' also included the study of fungi and algae, both of which remain the subject of research at the John Innes Centre. The laboratory of Professor Barrie Wilkinson for example, researches the discovery and biosynthesis of microbial natural products, including those produced by bacteria and fungi, both of which are a major source of pharmaceuticals for the treatment of life-threatening diseases. To compliment this, Dr Martin Rejzek is working on a cheap, safe and effective method of dealing with harmful algal blooms.

Numerals

Ordinal numbers are the numbers that talk about the position of objects. For example, 'The cookies are kept in the 3rd drawer from the top', 'The orange dress is the 7th one from the right', 'The soccer ball is kept in the 3rd carton from the left'. All these sentences have one thing in common - they talk about the positions of the objects. This is the main element in the discussion of ordinal numbers.

Difference Between Cardinal and Ordinal Numbers

A 41-42. ELECTRIC CARS

Benefits of driving an electric car:

1. Electric cars are energy efficient

Electric cars use electricity up to a third more efficiently than conventional cars use fuel to run a car.

Electric cars source electricity from a power grid and store it in the car's battery. This electricity is then converted into mechanical energy by the electric motor to power the car. An EV's electric motor is highly efficient and converts around two-thirds of the electricity to mechanical energy. This is much higher than conventional cars, which usually convert less than one-third of fuel to power the car. Find out everything you need to know about electric car charging in our easy-to-understand guide.

2. Save money on fuel

The rising cost of fuel is making diesel and petrol cars increasingly expensive to run. This is not an issue for BEV owners as fully electric cars don't require fuel. This saves electric car owners money spent on fuel and the time spent queuing up. If you drive an electric car, you still need to spend money on charging your car but you can choose your electricity tariffs when charging an electric car at home (and save even more if you install solar panels!) or use public chargers at off-peak hours to recharge at a cheaper rate. In 2024, more energy providers offer specific tariffs that encourage off-peak charging, allowing drivers to save even more on their electricity costs. Many companies also allow electric car owners to participate in vehicle-to-grid (V2G) systems, enabling them to sell excess electricity back to the grid, further reducing overall costs. Many supermarkets and car parks allow you to recharge your car for free when you're visiting the store. You can find all the charging points available close to you on our map. Some workplaces, too, allow their employees to charge their EVs for free. Electric Car Charging Points: Charging On The Go

3. Electric cars emit zero direct emissions

In this context, direct emissions refer to the pollution emitted when the vehicle is being used on the road.

Conventional vehicles use an internal combustion engine (ICE) which produces direct emissions through the vehicle's tailpipe – known as tailpipe emissions. ICE also produce direct emissions through the fuel system during evaporation. Fully electric cars, on the other hand, emit zero direct emissions since they run on electricity. As the UK and other countries ramp up their efforts to decarbonize the energy grid, the overall environmental impact of electric cars continues to decrease, making them an even greener option in 2024. Battery recycling initiatives are improving, reducing the environmental footprint of electric car batteries. There are, of course, many elements to producing and running a car – you can learn more about the total environmental impact in our guide: How green are electric cars?

4. Home charging points make electric cars more convenient

It can be time consuming to take out time to visit a petrol station in-between your busy schedule and then queue up to get the tank full.

If you have a home charger, you can recharge your electric car from the comfort of your own home. This helps in avoiding waiting in long queues for fuel and it means that you can recharge your car at any hour of the day. You can also pre-heat your car in winter without stepping out of your house – simply use an app. Another great thing about EVs is that they are more spacious as they don't have a large engine taking up space. Many homeowners are now opting to install home charging units with bi-directional charging, allowing their electric vehicles to charge from the grid and power their homes during peak electricity demand times.

A 43-44. EDUCATION SYSTEM GRAMMAR : PART OF SPEECH

According to official sources, about 60 percent of Uzbekistan's population is covered under the system of education. The earlier educational system required 11 years of compulsory schooling for both men and women. In 1992 the policy decision was made to change from 11 to 9 years of compulsory education. After nine years of compulsory schooling, students can prepare for higher education in tenth or eleventh grade or turn to vocational training. After graduating from any type of secondary education, an individual can enter a higher education institution to obtain a bachelor's degree and continue study toward a master's or doctoral degree.

Budget constraints and other transition problems following the collapse of the Soviet Union, have made it difficult to maintain and update educational buildings, equipment, texts, supplies, teaching methods, and curricula. Foreign aid for education is desperately needed, but has not been sufficient to compensate for the loss of central funding.

When viewed in general, the Uzbekistan educational system includes:

- Preschool training (preprimary-from three to six years old)
- General secondary education (from 6 to 15 years old)
- Secondary vocational education (from 15 to 18 years old)
- Higher education (undergraduate and graduate-from 18 years old).

Girls and boys are legally considered equal and study in the same classes and schools. Schools are open to all ethnic groups, and minorities in schools are rarely an issue..

A45-46. DESCRIBING PEOPLE

GRAMMAR: FUTURE SIMPLE

Mavis has been my neighbour for six years. I first met her when she knocked on my door and asked for a spade because she hadn't yet unpacked hers. She had only moved in two days before.

Physically, Mavis looks younger than most other women in their late sixties. She is of average height, neither fat nor thin. Her plump round face is framed by a mass of wavy white hair and her sparkling eyes are always friendly. She wears casual, comfortable clothes. I don't think I have ever seen her in a perfectly ironed suit.

As for her personality, Mavis's most striking characteristic is her generosity. My house, as well as most of our neighbours', nearly always has a vase of flowers from her garden in the living room. Mavis is very good-natured and always has time for a chat. She is also patient. She hardly ever gets annoyed about anything except when children pick her favourite roses and lilies. However, she tends to be quite stubborn once she has made a decision, nothing can change her mind.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

THE SIMPLE FUTURE

The simple future is a verb tense that's used to talk about things that haven't happened yet.

This year, Jen will read War and Peace.

It will be hard, but she's determined to do it.

Use the simple future to talk about an action or condition that will begin and end in the future.

How to form the simple future

The formula for the simple future is will + [root form of verb].

I will learn a new language.

Jen will read that book.

My brothers will sleep till noon if no one wakes them up.

You will see what I mean.

It doesn't matter if the subject is singular or plural; the formula for the simple future doesn't change.

But . . .

There is another way to show that something will happen in the future. It follows the formula am/is/are + going to + [root form verb].

I am going to learn a new language.

Jen is going to read that book.

My brothers are going to sleep till noon if no one wakes them up.

You are going to see what I mean.

The going to construction is common in both speech and casual writing. Keep in mind, though, that it's on the informal side, so it's a good idea to stick to the will + [root form] construction in formal writing..

GRAMMAR: AS....AS, NOT SO....AS

The study of disease is called pathology. It involves the determination of the cause (etiology) of the disease, the understanding of the mechanisms of its development (pathogenesis), the structural changes associated with the disease process (morphological changes), and the functional consequences of those changes. Correctly identifying the cause of a disease is necessary to identifying the proper course of treatment.

Humans, other animals, and plants are all susceptible to diseases of some sort. However, that which disrupts the normal functioning of one type of organism may have no effect on the other types. disease, any harmful deviation from the normal structural or functional state of an organism, generally associated with certain signs and symptoms and differing in nature from physical injury. A diseased organism commonly exhibits signs or symptoms indicative of its abnormal state. Thus, the normal condition of an organism must be understood in order to recognize the

A49-50. SPORT

GRAMMAR: ADVERB

Sports serve a great purpose, helping to bring up a strong and healthy generation of courageous young men and women. Sports teach people how to work together, improve coordination and increase players' self confidence.

Our republic pays a great deal of attention to physical education and sports. Hundreds of stadiums, gymnasiums, basketball courts, swimming pools and other facilities have been built all over the country for the millions of people who enjoy sports.

Physical training, sports and games are an important part of the education of our youth. The sports programme for youth sometimes includes boxing, wrestling, swimming, hunting, fishing, running, weightlifting, skating, skiing, cycling and shooting, as well as games like football, volleyball, basketball, ice hockey, tennis and badminton.

ADVERB.

An adverb is a word that modifies (describes) a verb (“he sings loudly”), an adjective (“very tall”), another adverb (“ended too quickly”), or even a whole sentence (“Fortunately, I had brought an umbrella.”). Adverbs often end in -ly, but some (such as fast) look exactly the same as their adjective counterparts.

Tom Longboat did not run badly.

Tom is very tall.

The race finished too quickly.
Fortunately, Lucy recorded Tom's win.

Adverb examples

Adverbs are easy to recognize because they usually end in -ly, but not always. Some of the most common adverb examples include:

- really, very
- well, badly
- today, yesterday, everyday, etc.
- sometimes, often, rarely, etc.
- early, late, soon, etc.
- here, there, everywhere, etc

Adverbs and verbs

Adverbs often modify verbs. This means that they describe the way an action is happening.

Huan sings loudly in the shower.

My cat waits impatiently for his food.

I will seriously consider your suggestion.

The adverb in each of the sentences above answers the question In what manner? How does Huan sing? Loudly. How does my cat wait? Impatiently. How will I consider your suggestion? Seriously. Adverbs can answer other types of questions about how an action was performed. They can also tell you when ("we arrived early"), where ("turn here"), or with what frequency ("I go there often").

Types of Adverbs

There are many types of adverbs, such as:

Adverbs of Frequency - always, sometimes, never, once a week, hourly, etc.

Adverbs of Manner - carefully, slowly, loudly

Adverbs of Time - tomorrow, now, this year, next week, soon, then

Adverbs of Place/Location - here, there, above, everywhere

Adverbs of Degree - very, extremely, rather, almost, nearly, too, quite

Adverbs of Quantity - a few, a lot, much

Adverbs of Attitude - fortunately, apparently, clearly

ADVERBS

An adverb describes a verb, an adjective or another adverb.

It tells us how, where, when, how much and with what frequency.

An adverb can tell...

HOW?	WHERE?	WHEN?	HOW MUCH?	HOW OFTEN?
quietly peacefully carefully slowly badly closely easily well fast quickly cheerfully	above abroad far away back here outside backwards behind below down	now yesterday soon later tomorrow yet already tonight today then last year	quite fairly too enormously entirely very extremely rather almost absolutely just	always sometimes often frequently normally generally usually occasionally seldom rarely never

A 51-52. Professions

Present Perfect Tense

When a person finishes school or university, they start their career. It's not easy to choose the right profession. It might also be hard to find a good job with a high salary. I always believed that you should choose the profession which is interesting to you. It is impossible to achieve success in something that you don't like. If you have to do something that is boring or makes you unhappy day after day, your life becomes miserable. I think that one of the reasons why a lot of people are poor and depressed is because they work only for money. Even if it is good money, but the job is very hard, eventually you would start to hate your job.

It's not important what you do, but it's a lot more important if you get joy and energy from what you do. You might be a businessman, a builder, a carpenter, an artist, a sales person. If you like it, then you have a chance to be successful. So ask yourself some questions: "What do I like to do? What can I do day after day? Will my skills be useful to others? What profession can give me money with minimum efforts?" Be honest with yourself. Don't do something because it's prestigious or popular. Remember, that it's your lifetime that you're going to spend.

Flora

Grammar: Reflexive pronouns.

Flora means "flower" in Latin, and Flora was the Roman goddess of spring and flowering plants, especially wildflowers and plants not raised for food.

Types of Plants: Plants are all unique regarding physical appearance, structure, and physiological behavior. Aside from that, they also vary in their habitats, tolerance, and nutrient requirement.

So with that kind of diversity, the big question is, how do you classify them? Good thing botanists have already devised ways to classify them. Classifying plants is considered one of the oldest approaches in studying botany.

In general, botanists group plants into two major groups: non-vascular and vascular. The former is composed of early plants, while the latter consists of plants that had developed a vascular system.

This grouping seems very general and covers various scopes. The more commonly used plant classification is the more specific one: classifying them into different species.

Types of Plants

The first classification of plants is the non-vascular plants; As their name implies, non-vascular plants^[1] lack vascular tissues that can help them transport water and nutrients. Non-vascular plants are considered to be the earliest living plants on the planet. However, fossils have not been found because these types of plants fossilized poorly. The most common non-vascular plants include the Phylum Bryophyta members described below. Among all plant species, the members of the Phylum Bryophyta are considered the simplest. Regarding physical appearance, mosses are small and inconspicuous. Bryophytes lack vascular tissue and wood that can render them structural support. They also lack true leaves, stems, and roots that can help them transport water and nutrients. Because of this, they are limited to a narrow range of habitats.

- Despite lacking some essential plant organs, bryophytes play an important role in minimizing erosion along bodies of water, carrying out water and nutrient cycling in forests, and regulating temperature in permafrost. Also see the biological weathering article.
- Regarding habitats and physical structures, bryophytes are related to lichens^[3] (symbiotic relationship between a fungus and algae). For instance, both of them utilize the moisture in the environment to transport minerals and nutrients.
- Because of that, bryophytes live in moist places and have adapted several methods to help them thrive in dry periods.
- Bryophytes reproduce through spores. Check out the life cycle of Bryophytes in detail here.
- At present, the classification of some species of bryophytes remains arbitrary and is up for further studies.

A55-56. Environment protection

Choose the title for each text which best describes its main idea.

1. Air pollution 2. Human health 3. Ozone depletion. 4. Global warming.

1. Our planet is becoming choked with poisonous gases mostly from our daily activities like driving cars, warming our houses and running power stations. The problem is worst in Latin America and Asia. In cities like Seoul and Mexico City, the air is so bad, some people wear face masks to filter the air they breathe. In cities like Beirut and Damascus, dust storms make it even worse! And pollution doesn't need a passport. Pollution from factories and power stations in Europe, North America and Russia ends up in the Arctic region.

2. Air pollution is a major factor in causing humans to get ill. Tuberculosis, bronchitis, heart and chest diseases, stomach disorders, asthma and cancers can all be traced to chemicals in the air. Pesticides and fertilizers release gases and particles into the air which poison people and kill animals.

3. Imagine that the Earth has a sunshade around it protecting it from the heat of the sun. This is called the ozone layer but the sunshade has holes so that harmful rays get through, causing cancer. To prevent it, we wear sun glasses to protect our eyes, and sun cream to protect our skin.

4. For years, chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) were used as a cooling device in freezers and air conditioners. Scientists discovered, however, that CFCs destroy the ozone layer – the layer that filters ultraviolet radiation from the sun. Ultraviolet radiation causes eye damage and skin cancer. An international agreement commonly called the Montreal Protocol, signed in 1989 has helped stop the production of CFCs. If we keep to this agreement, ozone-depleting substances will stop being produced and the ozone layer will begin to repair itself over the next 100 years.

5. The world is warming up because carbon dioxide (CO₂) from smoke and car exhausts collects in the atmosphere and traps some of the heat going back to space, like a greenhouse. CO₂ and other greenhouse gases are expected to raise global temperature by an average of 2°C by the year 2100 causing the polar icecaps to melt, sea levels to rise and freak weather conditions which may cause millions of deaths.

International environmental agreements [\[edit\]](#)

Many of the earth's resources are especially vulnerable because they are influenced by human impacts across different countries. As a result of this, many attempts are made by countries to develop agreements that are signed by multiple governments to prevent damage or manage the impacts of human activity on natural resources. This can include agreements that impact factors such as climate, oceans, rivers and air pollution. These international environmental agreements are sometimes legally binding documents that have legal implications when they are not followed and, at other times, are more agreements in principle or are for use as codes of conduct. These agreements have a long history with some multinational agreements being in place from as early as 1910 in Europe, America and Africa.^[5] Many of the international technical agencies formed after 1945 addressed environmental themes. By the late 1960s, a growing environmental movement called for coordinated and institutionalized international cooperation. The landmark United Nations Conference on the Human Environment was held in Stockholm in 1972, establishing the concept of a right to a healthy environment. It was followed by the creation of the United Nations Environment Programme later that year.^[6] Some of the most well-known international agreements include the Kyoto Protocol of 1997 and the Paris Agreement of 2015.

A 57-58. Climate changes

Grammar: The Past Perfect Tense.

Climate Change

Our knowledge and understanding of climate change and its causes and effects on the natural world continue to evolve. This is the nature of scientific inquiry. However, there is now clear consensus within the scientific community that climate change is real, change is occurring at rates that exceed those of history, and human-caused carbon emissions into the atmosphere are contributing to this accelerated rate of global climate change.²Climate change has always been a part of the evolution of our natural world, but natural rates of change occurred in magnitudes of geologic time. It is now recognized conclusively that the earth's climate is warming at rates that can be measured from one decade to another. It further is understood that this warming is being accelerated by human activities; particularly significant increases in carbon dioxide emissions that accumulate as "greenhouse gases".³The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reports that the impact of climate change and warming is seen in rising temperatures across the globe, the warming of the world's oceans, the shrinking of the polar ice sheets and glaciers, decreased snow cover, rising sea levels, increasing frequency of extreme weather events, and ocean acidification, among others.⁴We invite you to read the entire policy that includes the references cited above to get a full understanding on FFI's position on climate change.

Climate action starting now

Everyone has a role in climate action. At the United Nations, we are calling on people everywhere to work together to solve climate challenges and realize the commitments of the 2015 Paris Agreement. This website keeps up with actions taken by governments, businesses, civil society, youth and more in every part of the world. It's our planet, and while we know it is in crisis, we also know that solutions are in reach. Progress is already well underway, from more green energy to more secure food supplies. And the benefits are clear as well, such as green jobs, clean air and sounder economies. A more sustainable, prosperous world is in reach. Join us in taking action to claim it, starting now.

Past Perfect

The Past Perfect tense is quite an easy tense to understand and to use. This tense talks about the "past in the past".

In this lesson we look at the structure and use of the Past Perfect tense, followed by a quiz to check your understanding.

How do we make the Past Perfect tense?

The structure of the Past Perfect tense is:

subject	+	auxiliary have	+	main verb conjugated in Past Simple
		Had		past participle

The auxiliary verb (have) is conjugated in the Past Simple: had

The main verb is invariable in past participle form: -ed (or irregular)

For negative sentences we insert not between the auxiliary verb and the main verb.

For question sentences, we exchange the subject and the auxiliary verb.

Look at these example sentences with the Past Perfect tense:

	subject	auxiliary verb		main verb
+	I	Had		finished	my work.
+	You	Had		stopped	before me.
-	She	Had	Not	gone	to school.
-	We	Had	Not	left.
?	Had	You		arrived?
?	Had	They		eaten	dinner?

A 59-60 Mass media.

Grammar: Complex sentences

Modern world is full of information of various kinds which sometimes is even more valuable than money. Mass media (the press, radio, television and Internet) have a very big impact on modern society. They serve to inform people of different events, educate, entertain and give us any kinds of information. Complete and accurate information is very important to get nowadays.

The press still remains one of the most powerful kinds of mass media. One can find daily, weekly and monthly newspapers and magazines on different topics such as fashion, sport, children, politics, economy and others. I prefer getting news from the e Internet. My future profession will deal with fashion so I often buy monthly fashion magazines like Vogue or Cosmopolitan or read them in the Internet. Television plays a big role in our society too and a lot of people prefer watching television to reading a newspaper. Television provides a great opportunity for people to learn latest news, watch educational programmes, children's programmes, old and new films and soap operas on TV. As for me, I usually watch documentaries and game shows on television.

My mother prefers sitcoms and sports programmes; my father watches educational programmes and political talk shows. I think that it is impossible to live without television, even though the Internet, I am sure, will replace it one day in future. Radio is less popular than newspapers and television, but still people listen to it in cars or at work.

I usually listen to online radio stations while I am doing my homework or jogging. There are different types of radio stations and one can find any radio station to their liking. The Internet is the newest kind of mass media, but which has become the most popular and greatest source of information and entertainment. If you have the internet access, you may read newspapers online, watch films, listen to music, listen to the radio and even watch television online! I use the Internet every day for various purposes: I chat with friends all over the world, read news and find necessary information for my studies. Email has become the great way of communication. One can send a letter to their friends or a business letter and it will be delivered in a few seconds. I also like social media sites, like Facebook or Vkontakte. I have my profiles there and they help me stay in touch with all my friends both from Russia and other countries. Many people use the Internet programmes for communication such as Skype, Viber, WhatsApp and other.

Surely, there are advantages and disadvantages of mass media. Some of the advantages are education and entertainment. However, one needs to have special equipment and enough money to use different types of mass media.

Another disadvantage is that sometimes the Internet is unreliable and may even be harmful to people.

In spite of all disadvantages, people still read newspapers, watch TV, listen to the radio and browse the Net

Why is mass media important?

Your favorite movies on streaming services like Netflix, Hulu, and Amazon Prime Video, news on TV and radio, and articles in newspapers and magazines make mass media an integral part of our everyday life. Since it has a vast influence on people all over the world, brands use various platforms to appeal to their leads and customers and pitch their goods.

Companies run an endless marathon to reach success with the help of mass media. Brands use either traditional or digital media to connect with their target audience and build brand awareness. Entrepreneurs consider various platforms to convey a company's image and create a good reputation. With mass media, brands can effectively promote their goods and services, reach broader audiences, boost brand engagement, and increase sales volume.

Now that you know about the importance of mass media technologies, let's proceed to their functions.

Functions of Mass Media

Mass media in written, spoken, or broadcast forms has a significant impact on the masses. Commercials on TV, billboards, and social media platforms allow brands to build brand awareness. Companies search for the most effective ways to convey their message when it comes to branding, including sites, social media channels, blogs, and forums. When they find the right type of mass media channel for their businesses, they can communicate their ideas and conduct branding campaigns.

Mass media informs, educates, and entertains people in a wide variety of ways. Brands can educate users to get the most out of their products. The majority of companies now use social media platforms, create blog posts on their sites, and launch commercials on YouTube to describe their best features, the problems their products can solve, and provide step-by-step guides.

Now that we have cleared that up, it's time to explore the characteristics.

What is a complex sentence?

A complex sentence is a sentence with one independent clause and at least one dependent clause. It works best when you need to provide more information to explain or modify your sentence's main point. Complex sentences are easy to spot as they often use subordinating conjunctions like because, since, or until to connect clauses.

Complex sentences are one of the four types of sentences based on structure (simple, complex, compound, and compound-complex). Their distinction is that they contain a dependent clause; only complex sentences and complex-compound sentences have these.

A dependent clause, also known as a subordinate clause, is a clause that cannot stand alone as a complete sentence. Without an independent clause, a dependent clause is just a sentence fragment.

[Incorrect] When I grow up[/incorrect]

[Correct] When I grow up, I'll use complete sentences.[/correct]

One of the most common types of complex sentence is conditional sentences, which discuss imaginary situations, often using an if-then structure. In conditional sentences, one clause is true only if both clauses are true.

"If you're always trying to be normal, you will never know how amazing you can be." —Maya Angelou

Independent vs. dependent clauses: What's the difference?

The key to using complex sentences is understanding the difference between independent and dependent clauses. Basically, independent clauses are complete sentences on their own, but dependent clauses are not. However, both kinds of clause contain a subject and a verb, so why is one a complete sentence but not the other?

The short answer is that dependent clauses always start with subordinating conjunctions. In a way, these subordinating conjunctions turn independent clauses into dependent ones.

You're probably already familiar with some common subordinating conjunctions, such as because, since, if, until, when, even though, in case, while, now that, and certain uses of the prepositions before and after. There are also quite a few less common subordinating conjunctions, so we recommend studying the list included in our subordinating conjunction post until you can recognize them on your own.

With a subordinating conjunction, a clause becomes a description of another clause. In this way, dependent clauses change the meaning of independent clauses. Consider this example of an independent clause:

You cannot leave the school.

That sounds scary! Alone, this independent clause means that you must remain at school forever. Now, let's add a dependent clause to make a complex sentence that clarifies things further:

You cannot leave the school until the bell rings.

See how the dependent clause changes the meaning of the main point?

Simple vs. complex sentences

The difference between simple and complex sentences is easier to explain. A simple sentence is any sentence with only one independent clause. Any sentence with more than one clause—including a complex sentence—cannot be a simple sentence.

Interestingly, you can sometimes combine two simple sentences to create one complex sentence, as long as the two sentences are logically related and you add a subordinate conjunction.

Simple sentences:

Troy ate a giant cookie. He got a stomachache.

Complex sentence:

After Troy ate a giant cookie, he got a stomachache.

Educational system of Uzbekistan.

According to official sources, about 60 percent of Uzbekistan's population is covered under the system of education. The earlier educational system required 11 years of compulsory schooling for both men and women. In 1992 the policy decision was made to change from 11 to 9 years of compulsory education. After nine years of compulsory schooling, students can prepare for higher education in tenth or eleventh grade or turn to vocational training. After graduating from any type of secondary education, an individual can enter a higher education institution to obtain a bachelor's degree and continue study toward a master's or doctoral degree.

Budget constraints and other transition problems following the collapse of the Soviet Union, have made it difficult to maintain and update educational buildings, equipment, texts, supplies, teaching methods, and curricula. Foreign aid for education is desperately needed, but has not been sufficient to compensate for the loss of central funding.

When viewed in general, the Uzbekistan educational system includes:

- Preschool training (preprimary-from three to six years old)
- General secondary education (from 6 to 15 years old)
- Secondary vocational education (from 15 to 18 years old)
- Higher education (undergraduate and graduate-from 18 years old).

Girls and boys are legally considered equal and study in the same classes and schools. Schools are open to all ethnic groups, and minorities in schools are rarely an issue.

The academic year begins on 2 September (the first of September is the Independence Day) or the first working day of September. The academic year ends in June for secondary schools and in July for higher education. Russian was a common language for over 100 nationalities living in the Soviet Union and played the same role as English for the United States. It was also the Lingua Franca of the socialist world that included Bulgaria, Poland, Mongolia, and other European and Asian countries.

Without Russian as a common language, Uzbeks (and other ethnic groups) would have to learn Ukrainian, Belorussian, Moldovian, Armenian, and many other languages to communicate with the multinational population of the Soviet Union. Therefore, until 1991, Uzbeks preferred schools with instruction in Russian for their children. To not do so would have put them at a great disadvantage socially. After Uzbekistan gained its independence, Uzbek (not Russian) became the official language of instruction. In 1998-1999, some 76.8 percent of pupils at day schools were educated in Uzbek.

My University

I think everybody knows that education is necessary to be successful in our life. I would like to work in the field of physical culture and sports in future and to become a professional sportsman and a basketball coach. To get my profession I need a Institute graduation. So after finishing school I passed the entrance exams and entered Chuvash State Pedagogical Institute, the faculty of physical education. It will be a long course – five years of hard and constant studies: lectures, seminars, practical classes and test periods. The academic year lasts for 10 months and there are vacations twice a year: in winter and summer. I feel proud of my faculty as among its graduates are the winners of many Olympic games and the world champions.

The Institute is very old, it was founded in 1930 in the centre of the capital of Chuvash Republic – Cheboksary city. It was named for the talented Chuvash teacher Ivan Yakovlev. The establishment has developed rapidly since then, now it has become one of the largest universities of Russia. Today it gives students an opportunity to choose higher and post-graduate educational programs for 42 professions. The education is provided by qualified specialists, professors and doctors. There are 12 full-time faculties at the Institute which enroll more than 6000 students. There are the faculties of Music and Art, Foreign languages, Psychology, Science, History and Philology, Pre-school education and many others. The Institute includes 6 academic buildings with spacious classrooms, a modern library, a reading-room, well-equipped laboratories and workshops, computer rooms, gymnasiums and dining-rooms.

I'm sure that studying at Chuvash State Pedagogical Institute will give me much knowledge, in theory and practice, and prepare me for effective and interesting work.

Our environment

My native town

September the 1 st, 1991 became a landmark in the history of Uzbekistan as the day of the Republic's State Independence. Independent Uzbekistan is recognized by all states, with its 26 million population makes up both the geographical and political basis of Central Asia. One of the most ancient world civilizations has emerged in this region. This land was a crossroad of the Great Silk Road. The cities of Tashkent, Samarkand, Bukhara and Khiva have been known far and wide as they were noted for magnificent ensembles and outstanding thinkers, scholars and men of arts. We are proud of our history and revere the memory of our great ancestors-thinkers of the East: Al- Bukhari, Al-Termezi, Akhmad Yassavi, Al-Khorazmi, Beruni, Avicenna, Navoi, Ulugbek and many others.

Having declared its independence Uzbekistan has begun the building of a democratic, lawful society with an open market economy. The Republic of Uzbekistan is a country of great potential, unique natural resources and a promising future. It rates the third place in the world in cotton production, the eighth in gold extraction, the tenth in the production of copper. It has much more to offer the world market.

The Republic has a powerful scientific, intellectual and spiritual potential. Nature, climate and skills of people promote the development of such sectors as: silkworm – breeding, livestock farming and certainly- cotton growing. Light and food industries, chemical industry are well-developed in the country. Uzbekistan manufactures also machinery for cotton – growing, gas equipment, refrigerators, cameras, cranes, instruments and so on.

Agriculture is based on irrigation. Various crops, including technical cultures, rice, grapes, vegetables, tobacco, wheat are cultivated in Uzbekistan.

Cattle-breeding and especially growing of sheep are of no little significance in the Republic.

Sports

Sport is probably as old as the humanity itself. It has been developing with the developing and growth of the mankind. All over the world people of different ages are very fond of sports and games. Sport not only helps people to become strong and to develop physically but also makes them more organized and better disciplined in their daily activities. It makes for a healthy mind in a healthy body. Sports help people to keep in good health.

We all need to exercise. Even if you don't plan to make a career in sport you still have to practice. Regular exercises gives you more energy. That is why many people who suffer from general tiredness should take more exercise than more rest. Exercise makes you feel and look better. The best exercise is one which involves in repeated movements, those are: walking, jogging or swimming. Bending and stretching will add flexibility and feeling of lightness.

Among the sports popular in our country are football, basketball, swimming, volleyball, ice hockey, tennis, gymnastics, figure skating. A person can choose sports and games for any season, for any taste.

Text - Profession.

When a person finishes school or university, they start their career. It's not easy to choose the right profession. It might also be hard to find a good job with a high salary. I always believed that you should choose the profession which is interesting to you. It is impossible to achieve success in something that you don't like. If you have to do something that is boring or makes you unhappy day after day, your life becomes miserable. I think that one of the reasons why a lot of people are poor and depressed is because they work only for money. Even if it is good money, but the job is very hard, eventually you would start to hate your job. It's not important what you do, but it's a lot more important if you get joy and energy from what you do. You might be a businessman, a builder, a carpenter, an artist, a sales person. If you like it, then you have a chance to be successful. So ask yourself some questions: "What do I like to do? What can I do day after day? Will my skills be useful to others? What profession can give me money with minimum efforts?" Be honest with yourself. Don't do something because it's prestigious or popular. Remember, that it's your lifetime that you're going to spend.

Customs and traditions of Uzbekistan

Customs and traditions of the Uzbek people have been forming for centuries. They are very distinctive, impressive and different, dating back to different epochs and religions. Initial formation of Uzbek culture dates back to the 6th-7th centuries BC, by that time nomadic tribes shifted to a settled way of life in the valleys of Amu Darya, Syr Darya and Zarafshan and founded first states. Former nomads founded settlements and cities, bringing with them customs and traditions based on ancient cults of their ancestors. Territory of modern Uzbekistan, Transoxiana, being parts of ancient states – Khorezm, Sogdiana, Bactria - became the basis for formation of culture, which subsequently became the basis of Uzbek culture.

Over centuries, traditions and customs of Uzbek people remained almost unchanged despite the desire of many invaders to impose alien culture on. The Arabs had the greatest influence on Uzbek customs and traditions, through the expansion of Islam throughout Central Asia. Islam traditions were closely intertwined with pre-Islamic beliefs and traditions, local culture, and firmly settled in the mode and minds of the Uzbek people.

Centuries-old customs and traditions of the Uzbek people are carefully maintained and passed on from generation to generation. Like many Asian nations, most festive Uzbek customs are related with major family celebrations: wedding and birth. These events include many rites and rituals, involving parents, children, brothers, sisters, immediate and remote relatives even neighbors and guests, each one has its own role. Uzbek traditions are based on hospitality, respect for elders, collectivism, manifested especially vividly in makhalla (Uzbek residential quarters) – repository of age-old national basis.

Vitamins

Vitamins and minerals are micronutrients required by the body to carry out a range of normal functions. However, these micronutrients are not produced in our bodies and must be derived from the food we eat.

Vitamins are organic substances that are generally classified as either fat soluble or water soluble. Fat-soluble vitamins (vitamin A, vitamin D, vitamin E, and vitamin K) dissolve in fat and tend to accumulate in the body. Water-soluble vitamins (vitamin C and the B-complex vitamins, such as vitamin B6, vitamin B12, and folate) must dissolve in water before they can be absorbed by the body, and therefore cannot be stored. Any water-soluble vitamins unused by the body is primarily lost through urine.

Minerals are inorganic elements present in soil and water, which are absorbed by plants or consumed by animals. While you're likely familiar with calcium, sodium, and potassium, there is a range of other minerals, including trace minerals (e.g. copper, iodine, and zinc) needed in very small amounts.

In the U.S., the National Academy of Medicine (formerly the Institute of Medicine) develops nutrient reference values called the Dietary Reference Intakes (DRIs) for vitamins and minerals. [1] These are intended as a guide for good nutrition and as a scientific basis for the development of food guidelines in both the U.S. and Canada. The DRIs are specific to age, gender, and life stages, and cover more than 40 nutrient substances. The guidelines are based on available reports of deficiency and toxicity of each nutrient. Learn more about vitamins and minerals and their recommended intakes in the table below.

Water grasses.

Water is your body's principal chemical component and makes up about 50% to 70% of your body weight. Your body depends on water to survive.

Every cell, tissue and organ in your body needs water to work properly. For example, water:

- Gets rid of wastes through urination, perspiration and bowel movements
- Keeps your temperature normal
- Lubricates and cushions joints
- Protects sensitive tissues

Lack of water can lead to dehydration — a condition that occurs when you don't have enough water in your body to carry out normal functions. Even mild dehydration can drain your energy and make you tired.

How much water do you need?

Every day you lose water through your breath, perspiration, urine and bowel movements. For your body to function properly, you must replenish its water supply by consuming beverages and foods that contain water.

So how much fluid does the average, healthy adult living in a temperate climate need? The U.S. National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine determined that an adequate daily fluid intake is:

- About 15.5 cups (3.7 liters) of fluids a day for men
- About 11.5 cups (2.7 liters) of fluids a day for women

These recommendations cover fluids from water, other beverages and food. About 20% of daily fluid intake usually comes from food and the rest from drinks.

What about the advice to drink 8 glasses a day?

You've probably heard the advice to drink eight glasses of water a day. That's easy to remember, and it's a reasonable goal.

Most healthy people can stay hydrated by drinking water and other fluids whenever they feel thirsty. For some people, fewer than eight glasses a day might be enough. But other people might need more.

You might need to modify your total fluid intake based on several factors:

- Exercise. If you do any activity that makes you sweat, you need to drink extra water to cover the fluid loss. It's important to drink water before, during and after a workout.
- Environment. Hot or humid weather can make you sweat and requires additional fluid. Dehydration also can occur at high altitudes.
- Overall health. Your body loses fluids when you have a fever, vomiting or diarrhea. Drink more water or follow a doctor's recommendation to drink oral rehydration solutions. Other conditions that might require increased fluid intake include bladder infections and urinary tract stones.
- Pregnancy and breast-feeding. If you are pregnant or breast-feeding, you may need additional fluids to stay hydrated.

Is water the only option for staying hydrated?

No. You don't need to rely only on water to meet your fluid needs. What you eat also provides a significant portion. For example, many fruits and vegetables, such as watermelon and spinach, are almost 100% water by weight.

In addition, beverages such as milk, juice and herbal teas are composed mostly of water. Even caffeinated drinks — such as coffee and soda — can contribute to your daily water intake. But go easy on sugar-sweetened drinks. Regular soda, energy or sports drinks, and other sweet drinks usually contain a lot of added sugar, which may provide more calories than needed.

Proteins and Minerals

Proteins belong to a class of nutrients called macronutrients, which are so-named because your body needs large amounts of them to function properly. Proteins provide calories – 4 per gram – so they can be used as an energy source, if necessary. Proteins also help your body build and use hormones, provide mechanical support that allows you to move, help maintain fluid balance and keep your immune system functioning properly. You should take in about 0.4 grams of protein for every pound of body weight. If you weigh 130 pounds, this means consuming 52 grams of protein daily.

Your body needs small amounts of vitamins for growth, reproduction and to maintain overall good health. There are a total of 13 vitamins that are divided into two categories based on how your body absorbs them. Water-soluble vitamins, which include vitamin C and the B vitamins niacin, thiamine, riboflavin, vitamin B-6, vitamin B-12, folate, biotin and pantothenic acid, are absorbed with water and enter your bloodstream directly. The fat-soluble vitamins, which include vitamin A, vitamin D, vitamin E and vitamin K, need dietary fat to be absorbed properly. The fat-soluble vitamins pass through your small intestine and into your lymphatic system before ultimately entering your bloodstream.

Storage of Vitamins

Your body has the ability to store fat-soluble vitamins. Vitamin A, K and E are stored in your liver and vitamin D is stored in your fat and muscle tissues. When your dietary intake of these vitamins falls short, your body releases some of the stored vitamins to meet your needs. Your body does not have the ability to store water-soluble vitamins. When you eat these vitamins, any excess is excreted in your urine. Because of this, fat-soluble vitamin deficiencies are less common than water-soluble vitamin deficiencies.

Minerals

Minerals are inorganic substances that are divided into two classes – major and trace – based on how much your body needs to function properly. You need the major minerals in larger amounts, usually from hundreds to thousands of milligrams daily, while you only need the trace minerals in small amounts, usually less than 20 milligrams daily. The major minerals include sodium, potassium, chloride, calcium, phosphorus, magnesium and sulfur. The trace minerals include iron, zinc, iodine, selenium, fluoride, chromium, manganese, molybdenum and copper.

Desertification

Desertification is a type of land degradation in drylands in which biological productivity is lost due to natural processes or induced by human activities whereby fertile areas become arid.^{[1][2]} The concept of 'desertification' typically evokes mental imagery of the progressive expansion of arid regions, encroaching sand dunes, and an overall transformation of once fertile landscapes into barren and inhospitable terrain.^[3] It is the spread of arid areas caused by a variety of factors, such as overexploitation of soil as a result of human activity and the effects of climate change.^{[4][5]} Geographic areas most affected include the Sahel region in Africa, the Gobi Desert and Mongolia in Asia as well as parts of South America. Drylands occupy approximately 40–41% of Earth's land area and are home to more than 2 billion people.^[6] Desertification stands as a pressing environmental issue, with the potential to impact approximately 35% of Earth's land surface and affect around 32% of the global human population.^[7] This phenomenon pertains to the deterioration of land in arid, semi-arid, and dry sub-humid regions, encompassing the degradation of vegetation cover, soil quality, and nutrient depletion.^[7]

Effects of desertification include sand and dust storms, food insecurity, vegetation patterning and increasing poverty. There are many possible countermeasures such as reforestation, soil restoration, desert reclamation and managed grazing.

Throughout geological history, the development of deserts has occurred naturally. In recent times, the influences of human activity, improper land management, deforestation and climate change on desertification is the subject of many scientific investigations.^{[8][9][10]}

Types of water

Mineral water, spring water, sparkling water- these are some common terms that we frequently come across. However, many of us are not aware of the difference between these terms. Water forms a 2/3rd portion of our body and plays an important role in helping digestion, removing constipation, and carrying oxygen to our cells. Considering these factors, it is important to understand the different types of water available and their uses. Water is distinguished on the basis of composition, consistency, origin, and treatment. In this blog, we discuss the 7 different types of water and their purposes.

1. Tap Water

The water that you get directly from your faucet is tap water. Tap water is generally taken from a dam or river and supplied to your home through pipelines. Tap water is ideal for household purposes, such as cleaning, gardening, cooking, and washing clothes. Tap water, however, needs to meet the standards set by the local municipal bodies. Tap water may always not be suitable for your drinking purposes, especially if the pipelines are old and have leakages. As a result, if tap water is the main source of water supply, ensure that you get the best water purifier for your home. KENT provides top-quality RO water purifiers that remove contaminants and dissolved impurities to make water suitable for consumption.

2. Spring Water

As the name suggests, spring water comes from natural springs formed from an underground source. What makes spring water different is the water is not recycled and you get it directly from the source. Though natural spring water is not supplied by the common community water system, it is suitable for drinking as it comes from the underground.

3. Mineral Water

This type of water naturally contains essential minerals. The reason is mineral water is obtained from underground sources which is the reason why it is rich in minerals such as calcium, magnesium, and manganese. Any further minerals can't be added to the water and it can't be subjected to any further treatment. However, mineral water can be subjected to limited processes such as carbonation or iron removal before packaging. Though many people prefer bottled mineral water, it is advisable to avoid drinking bottled water as it contains toxins and microorganisms. Instead of bottled water, install the best water purifier for the home to save money and also stay safe.

4. Well Water

Well-water is not very common in urban areas, however, it is the main source of water supply in rural areas. Water trickles down and travels into the crevices of the soil when it rains. The main feature of well water is it directly taps the water source and is available on the surface via a drilled well. The well water may also be contaminated which is the reason why it is necessary to follow a purification process before using well water.

5. Distilled Water

Distilled water is something that has been subjected to a treatment process to remove minerals and salts by reverse osmosis and distillation. Though distilled water is one of the purest forms of water, it is advisable to avoid drinking distilled water as it doesn't contain the essential minerals or salts.

6. Sparkling Water

Restaurants often ask you whether you prefer mineral or sparkling water. Though we are aware of mineral water, sparkling is something that many of us are not very familiar with. Sparkling water is something that has undergone carbonation as a result of which it becomes fizzy, similar to sodas. You can convert spring, purified, or even mineral water into sparkling water by adding carbon dioxide.

7. Hard Water

Most of the homes in India get hard water. Plain water contains only two hydrogen atoms and one oxygen atom. However, when water is supplied to your home, it passes through limestone and picks up unwanted minerals to water, thereby making it hard. The presence of an excessive amount of calcium and magnesium increases the hardness of the water. In some regions, hard water may contain iron, aluminum, and manganese. Hard water is the reason for a number of problems such as dry skin, dull hair, and corrosion of plumbing fixtures. The only way to deal with hard water is to install a Water Softener from KENT. The compact appliance easily converts hard water into soft without using any electricity.

The Aral sea.

The Aral Sea (/ˈærəl/ ARR-əl)^{[4][a]} was an endorheic lake lying between Kazakhstan to its north and Uzbekistan to its south which began shrinking in the 1960s and largely dried up by the 2010s. It was in the Aktobe and Kyzylorda regions of Kazakhstan and the Karakalpakstan autonomous region of Uzbekistan. The name roughly translates from Mongolic and Turkic languages to "Sea of Islands", a reference to the large number of islands (over 1,100) that once dotted its waters. The Aral Sea drainage basin encompasses Uzbekistan and parts of Afghanistan, Iran, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan.^[1]

Formerly the fourth-largest lake in the world with an area of 68,000 km² (26,300 sq mi), the Aral Sea began shrinking in the 1960s after the rivers that fed it were diverted by Soviet irrigation projects. By 2007, it had declined to 10% of its original size, splitting into four lakes: the North Aral Sea, the eastern and western basins of the once far larger South Aral Sea, and the smaller intermediate Barsakelmes Lake.^[5] By 2009, the southeastern lake had disappeared and the southwestern lake had retreated to a thin strip at the western edge of the former southern sea. In subsequent years occasional water flows have led to the southeastern lake sometimes being replenished to a small degree.^[6] Satellite images by NASA in August 2014 revealed that for the first time in modern history the eastern basin of the Aral Sea had completely dried up.^{[7][8]} The eastern basin is now called the Aralkum Desert.

In an effort in Kazakhstan to save and replenish the North Aral Sea, the Dike Kokaral dam was completed in 2005. By 2008, the water level had risen 12 m (39 ft) above that of 2003,^[2] to 42 m (138 ft).^[9] As of 2013, salinity dropped, and fish were again present in sufficient numbers for some fishing to be viable.^[10]

Former United Nations Secretary General Ban Ki-moon called the shrinking of the Aral Sea "one of the planet's worst environmental disasters".^[11] The region's once-prosperous fishing industry has been devastated, bringing unemployment and economic hardship. The water from the diverted Syr Darya river is used to irrigate about two million hectares (5,000,000 acres) of farmland in the Ferghana Valley.^[12] The Aral Sea region is heavily polluted, with consequent serious public health problems. UNESCO has added historical documents concerning the Aral Sea to its Memory of the World Register as a resource to study the environmental tragedy.

Describing people

Describing people: physical appearance

Nowadays people are more and more concerned about their appearance. Personally, I think that looking presentable is very important for every person of every age. First of all, people who are satisfied with their physical appearance tend to be self-confident. Indeed, by looking well-groomed and nicely dressed one can easily communicate with others and achieve goals. Secondly, people who want to look attractive tend to go in for sports. Most of them follow a diet and go to the gym. Thirdly, people who care about their appearance look after their health. It is generally accepted that visiting a doctor for regular check-ups can help prevent illnesses.

If you asked me to describe a person whose appearance I like, I'd talk about my aunt. Her name is Sofia. She is middle-aged but has very youthful appearance. She is in her late forties but looks young for her age. She has a friendly round face. Her hair is short and ginger. My aunt has very beautiful blue eyes and long eyelashes. Her lips are red and plump. I like when she is smiley and happy. She is rather tall and medium-built. She doesn't usually wear glasses but she puts them on when she reads or watches TV. She has a lovely complexion. My aunt always looks fresh and seldom wears make-up. She is fair-skinned but likes to sunburn in summer. I like the way she looks because she wears clothes that are right for her age and always looks trendy and elegant. She prefers wearing suits and dresses. Anyway, my aunt is a good-looking woman and always looks great.

Great Britain

Great Britain comprises England, Scotland and Wales. The greatest part of Great Britain is flat, so the farmers can grow corn, vegetables and fruits.

Agriculture is one of the largest and most important branches in Great Britain. The main branch of British agriculture is dairy farming. Milk and milk products are famous all over the world. Pig and poultry farms are common in all parts of Great Britain. The chief grains are wheat and barley. The population of Great Britain is over 58 million people. The main nationalities are: English, Scottish, Welsh and Irish. Lots of immigrants (black and coloured) from the former British, Asia and African colonies live in Great Britain. Great Britain is highly industrialized country. The main industrial centres are: London, Birmingham, Manchester, Leeds, Liverpool, Glasgow and Bristol. The capital of the country is London. London is a very old city and one of the greatest sea ports in the world. More than 9 million people live in London. The most important parts of London are: the City, the West End, the East End and Westminster. The City is often called the commercial heart of the capital. You can find many museums, theatres and big shops in the West End. In the East End there are many factories and plants. Working class people live there. In the middle of Westminster there is an old church called Westminster Abbey. Great men of England: Newton and Darwin among them are buried there.

Answer the questions:

1. How many parts are there in Great Britain?
2. What is the capital of Great Britain?
3. What is the population of Great Britain?
4. What nationalities live in Great Britain?
5. What are the names of the main industrial centres?
6. What ocean are the British Isles washed by?
7. What can you say about the City (the West End, the East End and Westminster)?

KO‘RSATISH OLMOSHLARI (DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS)

This ko‘rsatish olmoshi so‘zlovchiga yaqin turgan, that ko‘rsatish olmoshi esa so‘zlovchidan uzoqda turgan birlikdagi narsa yoki shaxslarni ifodalashda ishlatiladi.

This — mana bu

That — ana u

This is a pencil and that is a pen. — Mana bu qalam, ana u esa ruchka.

This ko‘rsatish olmoshining ko‘plik shakli these, that ko‘rsatish olmoshining ko‘plik shakli those dir.

olmoshiga muvofiq keluvchi egalik olmoshi bo‘lib, u taalluqlilik, egalik ma’nolarini anglatadi va Whose? so‘rog‘iga javob beradi.

Egalik olmoshlari gapda otni aniqlab, doimo undan oldin keladi. Egalik olmoshili ot oldida artikl ishlatilmaydi.

Our lesson is over. Read your sentence, please.

Agar otning boshqa aniqlovchilari bo‘lsa, egalik olmoshi ulardan oldin qo‘yiladi.

Give me your red pencil, please.

Ingliz tilidagi egalik olmoshlari quyidagi xususiyatlar bilan o‘zbek tilidagi egalik olmoshlaridan farq qiladi: Ingliz tilida sening egalik olmoshi yo‘q, uning o‘rnida «sizning» egalik olmoshi ishlatiladi.

Egalik olmoshlari shaxslar bo'yicha quyidagicha:

My family.

My name is Oripov Karim. I am 19 years old. I am a first year student of the Faculty of Economy of Samarkand Agricultural Institute. I want to be an economist and now I work very hard at the subjects to become a good specialist. I have a large family. I have a mother and a father, a grandfather, a grandmother, three sisters and four brothers. I have also two aunts, two uncles and many nieces, nephews and cousins. We live in the country. My father is a farmer. My mother is a housewife. She is very busy with domestic work. She keeps home for us. We all try to help her.

My grandmother and grandfather do not work. They are very old. They are on pension. My elder brother and sister are married. They have their own families. My third brother studies at the University. My younger sisters and brothers are schoolchildren.

My elder brother is a worker. He works at a plant. My sister-in-law is a doctor. She works at a hospital. They have two sons.

I am a student. I am Kovalenko Katya. So, I am a student now. I'm a first-year student of the day-time department. I've entered State Tax Service Academy of Moscow after finishing a secondary school. You know, that was my dream to enter this Institute. No wonder, as all members of our family are economists.

My father taught me to understand and love mathematics. I realize now mathematics is a corner-stone of all sciences. My father works as a financier at the Planning Economic Department of the plant.

My mother is a book-keeper at a book-keeping department of the factory. She likes her specialty very much. I love a sister. She is twenty. And she is also an economist. She works as a cashier at the post-office savings-bank. She combines her work with studies at the Institute. She is a second-year student of non-resident instruction at this Institute. As you see, I took my parents way. I worked hard to pass my entrance examinations well. And now I've become a happy member of the great, young family of students.

Many new things and notions came into my life with it. At first, I didn't know what they meant. Now I became familiar with such words as "a freshman", "a sophomore", "an undergraduate" and such terms as "a period", "a seminar", "labworks". I know what it means "to make notes", "to pass thousands", etc.

I'm still to know more, and first of all how to save time to be able to not only study well, but to take an active part in the students' life, to join some students' scientific society and to sing in our Academy choir, to become a member of our Academy famous football team and to visit interesting students' evening-parties.

I'm fond of everything at my Academy. I like its great beautiful building, sport complex, its lecture halls, laboratories, studies.

I'm a freshman, as they call the first-year students. It'll take time to take time to know everything about our Academy.

Answer the questions:

Reading

My hobby is reading books, but I can't buy many books at the shop because they are very expensive. There is a good library near our house. There are a lot of different and interesting books in the library. There you can find any book you want. I go to the library every Saturday. I like adventure, mystery and science fiction books. The librarian helps me find books and gives good advice. If I have free time I like to read. I have read "Robinson Crusoe" by Daniel Defoe, "Gulliver's Travels" by Jonathan Swift, "The Count of Monte Cristo" by Alexander Duma and many other books.

Everybody must take care of books. Even more care must be taken with library books, for they are read by many people. If one person is careless with a library book then it can't be read by others. People who like reading must take care of books. They should never turn down the corner of a page to mark the place where they stop reading. They should also never write in books with pen or pencil, and they should be careful not to spill food or drinks on them.

Answer the questions:

1. Why does the writer go to the library?
2. What kinds of books does the writer like to read?
3. Why should you take care of books? How do you take care of books?

At the break-time

We study many subjects at school. We have classes in the Russian Language and Literature, Mathematics, Biology, Geography, Physics, Chemistry, History, Computer Science. English is one of my favourite subjects.

We have our English lessons in a very good language laboratory. It has all necessary technical TV set, tables with different rules, pictures, maps and a large book-case with many English books. That makes our lessons more interesting and attractive.

At our break-time we learn to speak English. We study pronunciation, vocabulary and grammar. We learn many poems and songs, read texts, listen to spoken English on different cassettes, imitating the sounds and intonation of native speakers.

At the break-time we have a good oral practice. They say that the best way to improve one's English is to speak aloud. We discuss different themes, ask questions on a given topic and answer them, make up stories and dialogues, do a lot of grammar exercises. We dramatise texts and dialogues and set up role-plays. Sometimes we take part in different quiz-games. They are very interesting. We learn rhymes and poems by heart and recite them at the lessons or at our English parties. I am fond of English and it is not difficult for me to learn it. I can cope with all the tasks without any effort. But there are some pupils in our class who can't cope with all teachers' requirements in a proper way. They can't understand English well and find it difficult to speak and write. Our teacher helps them to improve their knowledge of English after classes.

I like my English lessons very much because it is very interesting to know something new about other countries and to speak with foreigners without interpreters.

My Working Day

My name is Olim. I am 19 years old. I finished school last year. After school I entered Agricultural Institute. Now I am a first year student of the karakul sheep-breeding (economy, veterinary, etc) department. My working day begins early. I always get up at 7 o'clock. Every day I do my morning exercises and then I go to the bathroom. I wash and dress and at a quarter to eight I am ready to have breakfast. I have bread, butter, sugar and tea or coffee for breakfast. While having it I often listen to the latest news over the radio. After breakfast I go to the institute. Our lectures begin at 9 o'clock. The first lesson is English and the second lesson is chemistry. At 10 minutes to 12 we have a long break for dinner. I usually have my dinner at the dining-room of our institute. At half past 12 the third lecture begins. At 20 minutes past 3 our lecture are over and I come back home. At 7 o'clock I have supper at home with my family. After supper I learn English and other subjects. Sometimes I watch TV, read books and newspapers, listen to music. I go to bed at 11 or 12 o'clock.

Seasons

The four seasons of the year are: spring, summer, autumn, and winter. Spring begins in March and ends in May. I like spring best of all. The days are longer and warmer the nights are shorter than in winter. The sun shines brightly, snow melts and turns into water.

The air becomes fresher. The trees open their buds and young green leaves appear. In spring we shall plant many trees in our yard. We shall water the trees. Summer begins June and ends in August. In summer the days are very hot as a rule. The students do not study in June, they go to our experimental training farm, to collective and state farms. There they will have their practice and help the collective farms to harvest spring wheat, barley, oats, rye. After summer comes autumn. Autumn begins in September and ends in November. The days get shorter and the nights longer. There is much rain in autumn. The trees become red and gold. There are lots of yellow and brown leaves on the ground. Many people like autumn very much. In their opinion it is finest season of the year. There are many fruits and vegetables in autumn. In autumn our students gather tomatoes, potatoes, cabbages, beets, etc. They gather apples, pears, plums and other fruits. Winter is also a very pleasant season. Winter, as a rule, begins in December and ends in February. We usually have many cold days in winter and it often snows. I go to the skating-rink. I like to skate in our park.

Navruz in Uzbekistan: Feast of the Renewal of Nature

Ask any Uzbek people, whether old or young, about the dearest and most favorite holiday. And as often as not you will get the answer “Navruz”. What kind of holiday is it? And why it is so favourite by everyone, either residents or guests of the country. First of all, perhaps, for the wisdom that came to us from midst of time. Because the history of this holiday goes back to the Zoroastrianism epoch, to the period of good god Zarathustra and the sun cult. And this holiday appeared not without the reason, but exclusively on the call of nature. Exactly on March 21, when day and night are equal, a new solar cycle, new astronomical year, and consequently the law of renewal again come into their power. And today, as well as thousand years ago, the holiday Navruz is full of original rituals and colorful ceremonies. Though, they are not devoted to the cult of the Sun-god: many things were introduced by Islamic religion, but they became not less interesting and exciting at that.

The main mystery happens on the night of March 21. It is time for preparation of the main ceremonial meal from germinated wheat: sumalak. The whole mahalla, mostly women, gather near the huge pot: sit in a circle, sing songs, have fun, each of them waits for their turn to stir the sumalak. In the morning still warm sumalak is handed out to neighbors, relatives and friends. Tasting the sumalak it is necessary to make a wish, which, the locals say, will come true.

Navruz generally is very tightly connected with new hopes and expectations. Therefore, on this day it is used to forgive even the worst enemies, not to quarrel, to help weak and poor people. People believe that all of this will lure the success in your house.

Another good sign of the holiday is to entertain. Hostesses fry special patties with greenery, cook nishalda, a sweet dessert made of egg whites, whipped with sugar and scented roots of herbs, bake puff samsa, the fragrant pilaf is steamed in pots... So on March 21 the table is plentifully served with delicious meals. Abundance is also a good sign. In each house guests are awaited today: people accept guests and pay visits. It is hard to stay at home on Navruz! Folk festivals in the villages are especially interesting where traditional sport competition kupkari, equestrian competitions are arranged, as well as folk fairs, where you can buy everything from souvenirs to national baked foods.

Complete these sentences with a suitable word.

1.The main mystery happens on the night of March 2.It is time for preparation of the main ceremonial meal from germinated wheat: 3.The whole, mostly women, gather near the huge ...: sit in a circle, sing, have fun, each of them waits for their turn to stir the 4.In the morning still warm is handed out to neighbors, relatives and 5.Tasting the sumalak it is necessary to make a, which the locals say, will come true.

2. Explain the meaning of the following words in English and translate them into Uzbek.

1. Navruz _____
2. Nishalda _____
3. Kupkari _____
4. Samsa _____
5. Sumalak _____

In a food supermarket customers can buy many different products at once: fish, sausages, sugar, macaroni, cereals, flour, and tea. At the butchery there is a great choice of poultry and meat. At the baker's you can buy white and brown bread, rolls, and biscuits.

We often go to the greengrocery which is stored by potatoes, cabbage, onions, carrots, beetroots, cucumbers, green peas, etc. Everything is sold packed and ready-weighed. In the dairy they sell milk, cheese, butter, cream, and so on. The ways of shopping vary. It may be, for example, a self-service store where you can push from counter to counter choosing and putting into your basket what you wish to buy. Then you bring your basket to the check-out. There the price of purchases is added up. If it's not a self-service store, the shop-assistant helps you to find what you want.

Nowadays shopping represents an integral part of our living as for many people it's not just a need but also a great pleasure.

Work with a partner. Decide whether you are the shop assistant (STUDENT A) or the customer (STUDENT B) and make up a conversation following the instructions below..

STUDENT A. You work as a shop assistant at a grocery. You sell all kind of vegetables and fruit but unfortunately today:

- You do not sell strawberries because yesterday you forgot to put them in the fridge and they have all gone bad, you can offer your clients very good cherries instead.

- You only have 2 kg of red apples and need to sell them all.

- You do not have any broccoli but have a lot of celery.

- Tomatoes do not look good today. Cherry tomatoes are superb, try to sell them all (you have two cartons left).

- The last customer bought all the carrots you had.

STUDENT B. This is your shopping list, go to the greengrocer's and try to get everything you need:

- 1/2 kilo of strawberries.

- 1 kg of red apples.

- Some broccoli.

- 4 tomatoes (but you see they do not look good today, tell the shop assistant).

- Some carrots.

At the Central Department Store

My friend will have a birthday party in a week, so I have decided to look for a birthday present for her. I went to the Central Department Store which is situated in the centre of our city. It's a multistoried building where one can get everything in the way of food and manufactured goods. I must confess it was so difficult to make a suitable purchase in such a huge shop with a lot of counters and shelves. When I arrived at the Central Department Store I first admired the window-dressing. Then I went along the ground floor and looked into the shop-windows of the grocery, where I could see all kinds of food stuffs: meat, fish, tinned food, sausage, fruit, wine, sweets, chocolates, etc.

There were some commercial counters on the ground floor and I found myself in a fantastic motley city of different things. Then I went upstairs to the first floor, where I couldn't help admiring at seeing various goods. There were on sale: haberdashery, stationery, hosiery, leather-wear, knitwear. To tell the truth, I was impressed by a great choice of silk skirts and shirts, different kinds of frocks and coats, leather boots and shoes, woolen pullovers and sweaters, jeans and suits, jackets and blouses, bags and wallets. There one can get everything in the way of clothes wanted by men, women and children: footwear, knitwear, ready-made clothes, furs and what not.

I admired the cut and the style of a light summer frock. It was the latest fashion and I made up my mind to try it on. A pleasant-looking shop-assistant proposed me to put the frock on and look in the mirror. But unfortunately, it was a bit loose on me and didn't suit me perfectly. On the second floor of the Department Store I could see all kinds of household utensils: crockery, china, electric appliances, cutlery, pots and pans, vacuum-cleaners, washing machines, cameras, radio and television sets, computers, DVD-recorders and many other things one may want in the house. Besides, there were perfumery, florist's, gift and souvenir departments.

The shop-assistant suggested looking at a beautiful water-color. I liked that nice picture very much and I was sure my friend would like it too. The price of the present wasn't very high, I must admit. So I have paid the money at the shop-assistant with it again. I produced my receipt and obtained wrapped-parcel with a string. She thanked me and added they were always glad to see ne at their shop. I felt very excited at the thought that I had bought a very nice birthday present, and left the shop.

I was lucky to buy everything I wanted. Frankly speaking, I like to go shopping.

Waiter: It's beef cut into small pieces and served in a sour cream and white wine sauce.

Dave: Ok, that sounds good. I'll have that.

Waiter: Excellent. And that comes with your choice of French fries, fried mushrooms, or rice.

Dave: I'll have rice.

Waiter: Anything to start?

Dave: I'll have the French Onion soup.

Waiter: OK. And what can I get you?

Sarah: Is the Spaghetti and Meatballs very large?

Waiter: Yes, it's a big portion.

Sarah: Oh, I'm not very hungry.

Waiter: Then can I recommend the Chicken with Mushrooms? That comes with noodles, but it's not too big.

Sarah: Ok. I'll take Chicken and Mushrooms. And a salad to start.

Waiter: Very good. And what can I get you to drink?

Dave: A Coke, please.

Sarah: I'll have orange juice.

Waiter: Oh, I'm afraid we're out of orange juice. But we have pear, apple, grape, and kiwi-banana.

Sarah: Kiwi-Banana? That sounds interesting. I'll try that.

Waiter: Excellent. I'll be back with your drinks in a minute.

THE ARTS IN BRITAIN

The arts in Britain are flourishing, and present a varied and lively picture. London has become an international forum of the arts, with major exhibitions of painting and sculpture and theatre, opera and ballet companies and orchestras drawing large audiences. Throughout Britain there are festivals and centres of artistic activity – among them the Edinburgh International Festival, the music festivals at Aldeburgh, Windsor and Cheltenham and opera at Glyndebourne.

The spread of musical interest in Britain owes much to the British Broadcasting Corporation with its daily music programme and its partial financing of the Promenade Concerts at the Royal Albert Hall, London.

There are over 900 museums and art galleries in Britain and art exhibitions are shown all over the country through the Arts Council, which distributes government grants for music, drama, painting and sculpture. Local authorities play an important part in encouraging the arts, supporting galleries, orchestras and arts centres – an example is the ambitious Midlands Art Centre for young people in Birmingham.

British artists, writers, musicians and architects exert a powerful influence abroad. Notable figures include sculptors Henry Moore and Anthony Caro, painters Francis Bacon and Graham Sutherland and, among younger artists, Richard Smith, winner of a major international prize in 1967, Richard Hamilton, who painted the first "pop" picture, and Bridget Riley, internationally known artist whose work has also inspired fashion.

British music owes much to the composer Benjamin Britten, whose influence has produced a new school of British opera. In architecture the work of Sir Basil Spence (Coventry Cathedral, Sussex University) and the collective work of modern British architects in housing and town planning are outstanding.

Literature presents great diversity. Poetry has received fresh stimulus from regional movements including the Liverpool poets, who write for public performance. Among novelists of worldwide reputation are Graham Greene, Angus Wilson, William Golding, Iris Murdoch and Muriel Spark.

At the Post-office

There are post-offices in every city and town and even in a small village of Uzbekistan. In large towns and cities there is a General Post-office and a District Post office. In a General Post office we can see a number of counters with notices showing the operations handled: Parcel Post, Book Post, Money orders, stamps, Registered and air-mail.

Thus, for instance, if you want to send a parcel you come up to the "Parcel Post" counter. To send a parcel you must fill in a special form. The clerk will also wrap your parcel. The amount of money you have to pay depends on the weight of the parcel and the sum of insurance. At the counter "Book Post" you can send printed matters (books, magazines, newspapers, etc.). The post-office official will weigh your parcel, post on some stamps and then he (or she) will write out the receipt.

The "Post Restante" counter keeps your mail until called for, i.e. it is for those who prefer to get their mail in person.

At the "Stamps" window you can buy stamps, envelopes, postcards, ordinary and illustrated (in case you want to congratulate someone on a special occasion), note-paper, etc.

The "Money Orders" window handles operations for sending or cashing postal or telegraph money-orders. A telegraph money-order will reach the address quicker than an ordinary postal order. If you want to send money to someone you must fill in an order form and the name of the addressee in full. The clerk will charge you a special postal rate and write out a receipt.

District post-offices handle several operations similar to these of the General Post-office.

The clerk will sell you stamps, envelopes, post-cards. Here you can also send a wire (or telegram).
